DEMOCRATS ADJOURN UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

ASK CONFERENCE TO NAME MAN WHO CAN BE NOMINATED

THE SEVENTY-SEVENTH BALLOT FAILS TO BREAK THE DEADLOCK

McADOO HAS 513 VOTES, SMITH HAS 367 AND DAVIS 76

(By United Press)
Madison Square Garden, New York July 5.—Nomination of a compromise candidate on Monday is now the program of the democratic national convention.

After hours of fruitless balloting today, followed by conferences among leaders, the convention at 3:40 this afternoon adopted a resolution calling upon various candidates and their representatives to confer with Chairman Walsh and Cordell Hull, chairman of the national committee, upon a program of procedure and the selection of a man who can be nominated.

It was significant that the man presenting this resolution was Tom Taggard of Indiana, campaign manager of Senator Samuel Ralston, whose name was withdrawn from the convention yesterday in the interests of harmony at Ralston's request. Ralston was the first of the favorite sons to step out of the way, and there is a strong possibility that he will be named as a compromise candidate at one of the conferences which will be held tomorrow.

The convention had completed 77 ballots without result when it adjourned this afternoon. On the concluding ballot, McAdoo polled 513 and Smith 367 votes. John W. Davis registered 76½ and the remaining ballots were scattered over Underwood, Glass, Robinson, Owen, Ritchie, Saulsbury, Baker, Bryan, Walsh and Roosevelt.

YOUNG RIOT OVER KLAN ARGUMENT

Madison Square Garden, New York July 5.—Still floundering in its deadlock, with bad temper rising rather than diminishing, the democratic national convention today entertained and then voted down a resolution to adjourn the present session in New York to reconvene in Kansas City on July 21.

Other similar resolutions were expected to be presented unless some means was found of returning to the regular business of balloting for a presidential nominee.

As the taking of the roll call on the Kansas City resolution was started a fight broke out in the runway directly beneath the speaker's stand. John Costello, national committee man from the District of Columbia, became entangled in a Klan argument with John O'Reilly and punched O'Reilly in the face. There was an immediate hubbub and delegates and police rushed to the scene.

Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska was jostled out of his chair under the speaker's stand.

As rapidly as possible police cleared the runway and restored peace.

The roll call on the motion to adjourn to Kansas City then proceeded. It required only a majority to carry it, but the McAdoo forces voted solidly against the idea.

In the meantime leaders of the various delegations were scurrying around trying to agree on other plans that might be used in consuming time.

At about this stage in proceedings at the convention, Governor Al Smith left the Manhattan Club hastily and hurried up town for a conference. The Ohio delegation decided to leave Newton D. Baker on the 74th ballot.

William Gibbs McAdoo, who had counted heavily on a few Ohio votes, will not even get a single vote from that. Governor Al Smith will get 21½; Senator Underwood 8, J. W. Davis 6, Ralston 3½; Glass 3, Robinson 2, Saulsbury 1 and Charles W. Bryan 2.

The decision of Ohio to distribute its votes in the hope of aiding in breaking the deadlock will be revoked if later balloting discloses that there is any possibility of either Cox or Baker staging a comeback.

The official roll call of the vote on the motion to adjourn to Kansas City was:

Votes required for passage, 546. Those voting aye, 527; voting no, 1007.3. The motion, therefore, was overwhelmingly defeated.

FIFTH DAY'S BALLOTING STARTS RATHER STUPIDLY

Madison Square Garden, New York July 5.—Droning on with deep stupidity, the democratic national convention took up its fifth day of balloting today, apparently no closer to making a choice of a presidential candidate. The first ballot of the day showed no change in votes cast. William G. McAdoo polling 528½ and Governor Smith 333½, with the remainder distributed over the field.

The galleries were practically empty. Scarcely more than half the delegates were present, but each state's spokesman arose and wearily announced the delegation's vote in a hollow voice and the ballot was duly recorded. Women delegates in the California section with great colored scarfs and flags are now waving them in the air automatically when votes for McAdoo are announced. They have been doing this now for three days and nights, but it doesn't seem to make any difference in the McAdoo vote.

DEMOCRATS CONFERRING

The democratic national convention passed from the balloting to the conference stage this afternoon.

MAY INVESTIGATE McADOO'S EXPENSES

Washington, July 5.—Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the senate committee to keep tab on campaign expenditures and contributions this year, sent the following wire to Timothy T. Ansberry, alternate delegate at large at the New York convention and opposed to McAdoo, in reply to Ansberry's request that his committee investigate expenditures of McAdoo delegations:

"Timothy T. Ansberry, care so-called democratic convention:
"I doubt if the resolution under which the committee is authorized to act uses any investigation other than those which pertain to candidates after nomination. Wish you would consult with Senator Caraway and Bayard who are at the convention and advise me as to their views.
"Jones and Shipstead out of city. If it appears that an investigation is justified the committee will get together. (Signed) William E. Borah."

The senators referred to are members of the committee.

Seventy-first Ballot

Smith, 333½; McAdoo, 528½; J. W. Davis, 68; Underwood, 37½; Glass, 25; Robinson, 21; Owen, 2; Ritchie, 16½; Saulsbury, 6; Baker, 56; Bryan, 2; Walsh, 1.

Seventy-sixth Ballot

Smith, 368; McAdoo, 513; J. W. Davis, 75½; Underwood, 47½; Glass, 29; Robinson, 25; Owen, 4; Ritchie, 16½; Saulsbury, 6; Baker, 1; Walsh, 2; Cox, 1; Bryan, 4; Ralston, 4½.

350 PASSENGERS ARE TAKEN FROM BURNING STEAMER

TWO ARE KILLED AS PASSENGER BOAT BURNS IN BAY

(By United Press)
Baltimore, Md., July 5.—Three hundred and fifty passengers were rescued when the steamer "Three Rivers" of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic railway company burned to the water's edge early today, in Chesapeake Bay, off Cove Point, 30 miles below Baltimore.

The only known dead, according to advices received here at 4 a. m. today, are two negroes, a man and a woman.

The passengers were taken off by the steamer "Alleghany" of the Merchants & Miners Transportation company, and the "Middlesex" of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic railway company, according to a wireless from the "Alleghany."

Although under ordinary conditions few persons are brought to Baltimore by the "Three Rivers," she was loaded to her capacity when she sailed last night because of the crowd that went to the fourth annual Chesapeake Bay championship workboat races.

Death List Mounts

Baltimore, Md., July 5.—The death list in the fire on the excursion steamer Three Rivers, which burned in Chesapeake Bay last night, may rise to eight, a checkup showed this afternoon.

A negro man and woman are known to have lost their lives, and five members of the Baltimore Sun, newboys, and a third negro are missing.

U. S. FLIERS IN VIOLENT STORMS

(By United Press)
Calcutta, India, July 5.—The United States army fliers flying around the world hopped from Multan to Karachi yesterday, winging their way through violent storms.

The American airplanes left Karachi at 1:10 p. m. after leaving Multan at 6:18 a. m. They were given a great welcome by the British air forces.

Western Mustangs

The ponies of the western states, the mustangs, are mostly southwestern breeds, apparently Moorish in origin, coming to this country by way of Mexico and having been brought over originally by the Spaniards. To these ponies the term "bronco" is often applied. Many of the small horses at the present time have been crossed more or less with the American trotter, the thoroughbred, or the Arabian horses. These still are known as "broncos," although in recent years they have been more commonly termed cow ponies and are used exclusively in herding.

Why He Looked Tired

The head of a large business house noticed that one of his clerks had been looking off color for some months, and one morning, when he was looking rather paler than usual, he tackled him on the subject.

"You look tired this morning Jones," he said kindly. "Don't you sleep well?"

"No, sir," was the reply. "The fellow I share a room with and I suffer from alternate insomnia."

"Alternate insomnia! What is that?"

"Whoever gets to sleep first keeps the other awake all night!"

Remarkable Mines

Among the most extraordinary mines in the world are those at Hibbing and Coleraine, in Minnesota. There are to be found the only open-mouthed iron mines to be seen anywhere. The iron ore is so close to the surface that all the railroad had to do was to lay tracks and back in and haul out whatever ore it pleased. It is unusual to find metals or other valuables of nature close to the surface. The diamond and ruby mines furnish exceptions. The commoner minerals are often buried deepest.

PRESIDENT'S SON SERIOUSLY ILL

CALVIN COOLIDGE, JR., FIGHTS AN ATTACK OF BLOOD POISONING

(By United Press)
Washington, July 5.—Calvin Coolidge, Jr., 16-year old youngest son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, lies today fighting off the threat of a dangerous attack of blood poisoning.

By order of the president no formal bulletins on his condition were issued by physicians, but it was understood today that the boy's condition changed little during the night. It is believed the crisis will be reached today.

Major Coupal, White House physician, Dr. Joel T. Boone, medical officer of the Mayflower, and a nurse were on duty at the bedside all night. There were signs of activity all through the early hours of the morning, and on several occasions Mrs. Coolidge was seen walking about restlessly.

DROWNING VICTIM IS BURIED AT STILLWATER

(By United Press)
Stillwater, Minn., July 5.—Funeral services for Clarence Johnson, 28, whose body was found floating in the Big Cornelian lake near here yesterday, will be held at Trinity Lutheran church at 3 p. m. today.

Johnson was drowned while fishing last Sunday with Ralph Rylander when their boat overturned. Rylander made his way to shore safely.

The body was found by George Ramstead and Peter Lund, employees of the state prison, where Johnson was also employed.

He is survived by the widow and one child.

WALL STREET PLACES ODDS ON COOLIDGE

BETTING JUMPED FROM 9 TO 5 TO 2 TO 1 TO- DAY

"REFLECTS THE SITUATION IN MADISON SQUARE GAR-DEN"

(By United Press)
New York, July 5.—Odds on President Coolidge to be elected jumped from 9 to 5 to 2 to 1 in Wall Street. A substantial sum of money is available at these odds, S. S. Freed & Company reported, adding that the change "reflects the situation in Madison Square Garden."

The seemingly unbreakable deadlock in the democratic national convention put Wall Street betters in a quandary as far as Governor Al Smith and W. G. McAdoo are concerned and odds generally switched to the dark horses at shorter odds than in the case of others of the leading candidates.

Freed & Company shortened odds against Senators Underwood and Glass, John W. Davis and Governor Ritchie to 2½-1 from 3 and 3½-1 which prevailed Thursday.

Odds against Newton D. Baker were 2½-1 and against Homer S. Cummings 3-1.

Fear Affects Health, Says U. S. Scientist; Proven by Rats

(By United Press)
Philadelphia, July 5.—Fear and nervous excitement affects the health of humans and retards growth, according to experiments conducted at the Wistar Institute of Anatomy.

"That happiness means health has a scientific basis," says Dr. Milton J. Greenman, director of the institute. "Rats have been tamed so that they could readily be handled without fear. Experiments on such rats cause no ill effect, whereas the same tests on rats which were wild and afraid during the experiments have resulted in affecting the rat's health and even causing death," Dr. Greenman said.

"This is directly due to properties of several glands which are like the glands of internal secretions in the human, notably the thyroid or throat glands, the pineal and suprarenal glands."

Dr. Greenman hopes by carrying out the tests that the peculiar properties of the thyroid, pineal and other glands may be definitely ascertained.

Franklin's House Torn Down to Make Room for Bridge

(By United Press)
Philadelphia, July 5.—The march of progress to make way for the new Delaware River Bridge which will link Camden and Philadelphia in 1926 has meant the tearing down of many historical homes here, including the old dwelling of Benjamin Franklin.

Shortly after Ben Franklin became established here he bought a block of buildings on Front and Spring streets for five pounds and ten shillings. In one of these houses, III Spring street, the great revolutionary patriot and discoverer of electricity dwelt for many years.

The home of Franklin's, however, was in the way for an approach on the Pennsylvania side to the bridge now under construction. The city condemned the property.

Benjamin E. Sattler, owner of the little home at 111 Spring street received $1,700 to pay him for its demolition because of the bridge. An enterprising contractor who tore down the dwelling sold bricks from it as relics and received more than $2,000 from them.

BRITISH BIRDMEN ARRIVE IN JAPAN

(By United Press)
Tokio, July 5.—The British round the world amphibian plane piloted by Major Stewart MacLaren arrived in Japan today.

Thousands of people were along the waterfront at Kagoshima as the big plane came roaring out from the China coast and cheered the aviators as their plane settled gracefully.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS GENERALLY GOOD

CONDITION OF STATE ROADS IN VICINITY OF BRAINERD FOR WEEK END

Week end travelers on Minnesota trunk highways are finding the big 7,000 mile system generally in excellent condition, according to ratings on the routes in the bulletins issued today by the state highway department. Most of the important arterial highways, the bulletin indicates, are in fine shape, and the "slow" sections are on the less traveled routes.

The report of the highways in which Brainerd motorists will be most interested follows:

T. H. No. 2—Duluth, Brainerd, Aitkin, Wadena, Detroit and Moorhead—Fair from Duluth through Carlton; good through Aitkin and Brainerd to Motley; fair through Staples; good to Wadena and fair or better through Detroit to Moorhead.

T. H. No. 3—Winona, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Breckenridge—Fair out of LaCrescent; good detour into Winona; good to Minnesota City; poor over new construction to Kellogg; generally good to St. Paul, including detours around paving operations between Lake City and Red Wing; paved from St. Paul to St. Cloud; then fair detour around new construction and good into Albany and on through Sauk Center, Alexandria, Fergus Falls to Breckenridge.

T. H. No. 4—Jackson, Willmar, Wadena, Bemidji and International Falls—Good from state south line through Jackson; fair detours around new construction north and south of Windom; fair to Sanborn; good to Redwood Falls; fair to Morton; good on through Olivia, Willmar, Paynesville to Sauk Centre; fair to Long Prairie; good through Wadena, Park Rapids and Bemidji to Blackduck, and fair to International Falls.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca, Garrison and Brainerd—Good.

T. H. No. 19—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—Good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—Paved from St. Cloud through Royalton and Little Falls to Belle Prairie and fair into Brainerd.

T. H. No. 28—Little Falls, Glenwood and Browns Valley—Generally good—good detour west of Starbuck and fair detour through Glenwood.

T. H. No. 29—Glenwood, Alexandria and Wadena—Generally good, including detour on Alexandria-Parkers Prairie section.

T. H. No. 34—Detroit, Walker and Grand Rapids—Good.

T. H. No. 35—Garrison, Grand Rapids, Virginia and Ely—Good; paved from Grand Rapids through Hibbing and Biwabik to Aurora.

T. H. No. 36—Fergus Falls, Battle Lake and Henning—Good.

T. H. No. 37—Little Falls and Motley—Good.

PARENTS VISIT LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Chicago, July 5.—Nathan Leopold, Sr., Chicago millionaire, visited his son in the county jail for the first time since he was charged with the murder of young Franks. Father and son both wept when they met.

Alienists for the defense in the sensational trial are making an examination of Richard Loeb, who with Nathan Leopold, Jr., has confessed to the kidnaping and killing of Franks.

The mother of Loeb visited her son for the first time since he has been confined in the jail several days ago.

SENATOR'S SON PLACES FATHER'S HAT IN THE RING

CONVENTION GOES ON RECORD AS AGAINST RADICAL FORCES

MAHONEY OF ST. PAUL IS REFUSED
ED SEAT WITH DELE-
GATES

(By United Press)
Report of credentials committee.

Adoption of rules.
Speech by Senator L. J. Frazier of North Dakota.
Endorsement of the candidacy of LaFollette.
Selection of a vice-presidential nominee.
Adjournment.

Municipal Auditorium, Cleveland, O., July 5.—Robert M. LaFollette, senator from Wisconsin, today made formal announcement of his independent candidacy for president of the United States. This statement was made in a message read by the senator's son, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., to the convention in session here, and was followed immediately by a motion to endorse this candidacy, offered by Herman Willis, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The progressive convention, which is launching the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette today, ousted its lone communist and went on record in opposition to radical forces opposed to their leaders.

William D. Mahoney of St. Paul, third party convention representative which was dominated by communists, was refused a seat in the convention by the report of the committee on credentials which was adopted "without opposition."

The report stated that Mahoney's purposes could not coincide with the purposes of this convention and therefore he had no place here.

Several delegates tried to get the floor to protest against the decision but failed when the convention voted with a storm of "ayes" against a few scattering "nos" to refuse them the privilege of the floor.

Meantime reports came from the resolutions committee that the plan of submitting a platform to the convention might be abandoned. Some leaders feel that the platform upon which LaFollette has run for years is well known and needs no restating and that presentation of a platform may only lead to sentiment which will work against LaFollette's candidacy.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota in his speech urged the convention to forget petty differences and rally behind LaFollette.

The nominations committee was presented with a proposition whereby no nomination for vice-president would be made at this time.

Certain factions feel that it would be wise to wait until the democratic convention is concluded before making a selection.

Flames Destroy Famous Hotel at Lake Louise

Lake Louise, Alta., July 5.—After a bitter seven-hour fight with flames, all that remains today of the original Lake Louise chalet—the famous "palace in the clouds"—is two blackened walls.

The loss is estimated at $250,000; six persons, all members of the staff, suffered light burns.

Hundreds of tourists, the majority of them from the United States, are now safely housed in the newer sections of the hotel.

Calgary, Alta., July 5.—An order has been booked by a local grain firm for between 5,000 and 6,000 tons of Alberta oats for shipment to New Zealand.

350 PASSENGERS ARE TAKEN FROM BURNING STEAMER

TWO ARE KILLED AS PASSENGER BOAT BURNS IN BAY

VACATION CROWDS RESCUED BY TWO PASSING STEAM-SHIPS

(By United Press)
Baltimore, Md., July 5.—Three hundred and fifty passengers were rescued when the steamer "Three Rivers" of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic railway company burned to the water's edge early today, in Chesapeake Bay, off Cove Point, 30 miles below Baltimore.

The only known dead, according to advices received here at 4 a. m. today, are two negroes, a man and a woman.

The passengers were taken off by the steamer "Alleghany" of the Merchants & Miners Transportation company, and the "Middlesex" of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic railway company, according to a wireless from the "Alleghany."

Although under ordinary conditions few persons are brought to Baltimore by the "Three Rivers," she was loaded to her capacity when she sailed last night because of the crowd that went to the fourth annual Chesapeake Bay championship workboat races.

Death List Mounts

Baltimore, Md., July 5.—The death list in the fire on the excursion steamer "Three Rivers," which burned in Chesapeake Bay last night, may rise to eight, a checkup showed this afternoon.

A negro man and woman are known to have lost their lives, and five members of the Baltimore Sun, newsboys, and a third negro are missing.

U. S. FLIERS IN VIOLENT STORMS

(By United Press)
Calcutta, India, July 5.—The United States army fliers flying around the world hopped from Multan to Karachi yesterday, winging their way through violent storms.

The American airplanes left Karachi at 1:10 p. m. after leaving Multan at 6:18 a. m. They were given a great welcome by the British air forces.

Western Mustangs

The ponies of the western states, the mustangs, are mostly southwestern breeds, apparently Moorish in origin, coming to this country by way of Mexico and having been brought over originally by the Spaniards. To these ponies the term "broncos" is often applied. Many of the small horses at the present time have been crossed more or less with the American trotter, the thoroughbred, or the Arabian horses. These still are known as "broncos," although in recent years they have been more commonly termed cow ponies and are used exclusively in herding.

Why He Looked Tired

The head of a large business house noticed that one of his clerks had been looking off color for some months, and one morning, when he was looking rather paler than usual, he tackled him on the subject.

"You look tired this morning, Jones," he said kindly. "Don't you sleep well?"

"No, sir," was the reply. "The fellow I share a room with and I suffer from alternate insomnia."

"Alternate insomnia! What is that?"

"Whoever gets to sleep first keeps the other awake all night!"

Remarkable Mines

Among the most extraordinary mines in the world are those at Hibbing and Coleraine, in Minnesota. There are to be found the only open-mouthed iron mines to be seen anywhere. The iron ore is so close to the surface that all the railroad had to do was to lay tracks and back in and haul out whatever ore it pleased. It is unusual to find metals or other valuables of nature close to the surface. The diamond and ruby mines furnish exceptions. The commoner minerals are often buried deep.

PRESIDENT'S SON SERIOUSLY ILL

CALVIN COOLIDGE, JR., FIGHTS AN ATTACK OF BLOOD POISONING

(By United Press)
Washington, July 5.—Calvin Coolidge, Jr., 16-year old youngest son in a hushed room at the White House of President and Mrs. Coolidge, lies today fighting off the threat of a dangerous attack of blood poisoning.

By order of the president no formal bulletins on his condition were issued by physicians, but it was understood today that the boy's condition changed little during the night. It is believed the crisis will be reached today.

Major Coupal, White House physician, Dr. Joel T. Boone, medical officer of the Mayflower, and a nurse were on duty at the bedside all night. There were signs of activity all through the early hours of the morning, and on several occasions Mrs. Coolidge was seen walking about restlessly.

DROWNING VICTIM IS BURIED AT STILLWATER

(By United Press)
Stillwater, Minn., July 5.—Funeral services for Clarence Johnson, 28, whose body was found floating in the Big Cornelian lake near here yesterday, will be held at Trinity Lutheran church at 3 p. m. today.

Johnson was drowned while fishing last Sunday with Ralph Rylander when their boat overturned. Rylander made his way to shore safely.

The body was found by George Ramstead and Peter Lund, employees of the state prison, where Johnson was also employed.

He is survived by the widow and one child.

WALL STREET PLACES ODDS ON COOLIDGE

BETTING JUMPED FROM 9 TO 5 TO 2 TO 1 TO- DAY

"REFLECTS THE SITUATION IN
MADISON SQUARE GAR-DEN"

(By United Press)

New York, July 5.—Odds on President Coolidge to be elected jumped from 9 to 5 to 2 to 1 in Wall Street. A substantial sum of money is available at these odds, S. S. Freed & Company reported, adding that the change "reflects the situation in Madison Square Garden."

The seemingly unbreakable deadlock in the democratic national convention put Wall Street betters in a quandary as far as Governor Al Smith and W. G. McAdoo are concerned and odds generally switched to the dark horses at shorter odds than in the case of others of the leading candidates.

Freed & Company shortened odds against Senators Underwood and Glass, John W. Davis and Governor Ritchie to 2½-1 from 3 and 3½-1 which prevailed Thursday.

Odds against Newton D. Baker were 2½-1 and against Homer S. Cummings 3-1.

Fear Affects Health, Says U. S. Scientist; Proven by Rats

(By United Press)

Philadelphia, July 5.—Fear and nervous excitement affects the health of humans and retards growth, according to experiments conducted at the Wistar Institute of Anatomy.

"That happiness means health has a scientific basis," says Dr. Milton J. Greenman, director of the institute. "Rats have been tamed so that they could readily be handled without fear. Experiments on such rats cause no ill effect, whereas the same tests on rats which were wild and afraid during the experiments have resulted in affecting the rat's health and even causing death," Dr. Greenman said.

"This is directly due to properties of several glands which are like the glands of internal secretions in the human, notably the thyroid or throat glands, the pineal and suprarenal glands."

Dr. Greenman hopes by carrying out the tests that the peculiar properties of the thyroid, pineal and other glands may be definitely ascertained.

Franklin's House Torn Down to Make Room for Bridge

(By United Press)
Philadelphia, July 5.—The march of progress to make way for the new Delaware River Bridge which will link Camden and Philadelphia in 1926 has meant the tearing down of many historical homes here, including the old dwelling of Benjamin Franklin.

Shortly after Ben Franklin became established here he bought a block of buildings on Front and Spring streets for five pounds and ten shillings. In one of these houses, III Spring street, the great revolutionary patriot and discoverer of electricity dwelt for many years.

The home of Franklin's, however, was in the way for an approach on the Pennsylvania side to the bridge now under construction. The city condemned the property.

Benjamin E. Sattler, owner of the little home at 111 Spring street received $1,700 to pay him for its demolition because of the bridge. An enterprising contractor who tore down the dwelling sold bricks from it as relics and received more than $2,000 from them.

BRITISH BIRDMEN ARRIVE IN JAPAN

(By United Press)

Tokio, July 5.—The British round the world amphibian plane piloted by Major Stewart MacLaren arrived in Japan today.

Thousands of people were along the waterfront at Kagoshima as the big plane came roaring out from the China coast and cheered the aviators as their plane settled gracefully.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS GENERALLY GOOD

CONDITION OF STATE ROADS IN VICINITY OF BRAINERD FOR WEEK END

Week end travelers on Minnesota trunk highways are finding the big 7,000 mile system generally in excellent condition, according to ratings on the routes in the bulletins issued today by the state highway department. Most of the important arterial highways, the bulletin indicates, are in fine shape, and the "slow" sections are on the less traveled routes.

The report of the highways in which Brainerd motorists will be most interested follows:

T. H. No. 2—Duluth, Brainerd, Atkin, Wadena, Detroit and Moorhead—Fair from Duluth through Carlton; good through Atkin and Brainerd to Motley; fair through Staples; good to Wadena and fair or better through Detroit to Moorhead.

T. H. No. 3—Winona, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Breckenridge—Fair out of LaCrescent; good detour into Winona; good to Minnesota City; poor over new construction to Kellogg; generally good to St. Paul, including detours around paving operations between Lake City and Red Wing; paved from St. Paul to St. Cloud; then fair detour around new construction and good into Albany and on through Sauk Center, Alexandria, Fergus Falls to Breckenridge.

T. H. No. 4—Jackson, Willmar, Wadena, Bemidji and International Falls—Good from state south line through Jackson; fair detours around new construction north and south of Windom; fair to Sanborn; good to Redwood Falls; fair to Morton; good on through Olivia, Willmar, Paynesville to Sauk Centre; fair to Long Prairie; good through Wadena, Park Rapids and Bemidji to Blackduck, and fair to International Falls.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca, Garrison and Brainerd—Good.

T. H. No. 19—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—Good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—Paved from St. Cloud through Royalton and Little Falls to Belle Prairie and fair into Brainerd.

T. H. No. 28—Little Falls, Glenwood and Browns Valley—Generally good—good detour west of Starbuck and fair detour through Glenwood.

T. H. No. 29—Glenwood, Alexandria and Wadena—Generally good, including detour on Alexandria-Parkers Prairie section.

T. H. No. 34—Detroit, Walker and Grand Rapids—Good.

T. H. No. 35—Garrison, Grand Rapids, Virginia and Ely—Good; paved from Grand Rapids through Hibbing and Biwabik to Aurora.

T. H. No. 36—Fergus Falls, Battle Lake and Henning—Good.

T. H. No. 37—Little Falls and Motley—Good.

PARENTS VISIT LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Chicago, July 5.—Nathan Leopold, Sr., Chicago millionaire, visited his son in the county jail for the first time since he was charged with the murder of young Franks. Father and son both wept when they met.

Allenists for the defense in the sensational trial are making an examination of Richard Loeb, who with Nathan Leopold, Jr., has confessed to the kidnapping and killing of Franks.

The mother of Loeb visited her son for the first time since he has been confined in the jail several days ago.

SENATOR'S SON PLACES FATHER'S HAT IN THE RING

CONVENTION GOES ON RECORD AS AGAINST RADICAL FORCES

MAHONEY OF ST. PAUL IS REFUS-
ED SEAT WITH DELE-
GATES

(By United Press)

Progressive Convention Program
Report of credentials committee.
Election of permanent officers.
Adoption of rules.
Speech by Senator L. J. Frazier of North Dakota.
Endorsement of the candidacy of LaFollette.
Selection of a vice-presidential nominee.
Adjournment.

Municipal Auditorium, Cleveland, O., July 5.—Robert M. LaFollette, senator from Wisconsin, today made formal announcement of his independent candidacy for president of the United States. This statement was made in a message read by the senator's son, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., to the convention in session here, and was followed immediately by a motion to endorse this candidacy, offered by Herman Wills, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The progressive convention, which is launching the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette today, ousted its lone communist and went on record in opposition to radical forces opposed to their leaders.

William D. Mahoney of St. Paul, third party convention representative which was dominated by communists, was refused a seat in the convention by the report of the committee on credentials which was adopted "without opposition."

The report stated that Mahoney's purposes could not coincide with the purposes of this convention and therefore he had no place here.

Several delegates tried to get the floor to protest against the decision but failed when the convention voted with a storm of "ayes" against a few scattering "nos" to refuse them the privilege of the floor.

Meantime reports came from the resolutions committee that the plan of submitting a platform to the convention might be abandoned. Some leaders feel that the platform upon which LaFollette has run for years is well known and needs no restating and that presentation of a platform may only lead to sentiment which will work against LaFollette's candidacy.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota in his speech urged the convention to forget petty differences and rally behind LaFollette.

The nominations committee was presented with a proposition whereby no nomination for vice-president would be made at this time.

Certain factions feel that it would be wise to wait until the democratic convention is concluded before making a selection.

Flames Destroy Famous Hotel at Lake Louise

Lake Louise, Alta., July 5.—After a bitter seven-hour fight with flames, all that remains today of the original Lake Louise chalet—the famous "palace in the clouds"—is two blackened walls.

The loss is estimated at $250,000; six persons, all members of the staff, suffered light burns.

Hundreds of tourists, the majority of them from the United States, are now safely housed in the newer sections of the hotel.

Calgary, Alta., July 5.—An order has been booked by a local grain firm for between 5,000 and 6,000 tons of Alberta oats for shipment to New Zealand.

POMPEIIANS ALIVE TO VALUE OF PUBLICITY

Inscriptions on Walls Reveal Customs and Thoughts.

Let us go into one of the completely uncovered Pompeian streets. The first detail that attracts our attention is the varied decoration of the house fronts. Frescoes, carvatures, illustrated signs, drawings, inscriptions—this extraordinary imagery gives what one might call malicious eyes to every wall and a most persuasive tongue. It is evident that gayety once reigned in this popular thoroughfare, and from the variety of texts inscribed on the walls we understand that, among the passions of the epoch, politics held an important place, writes Edouard Schneider in L'Illustration, Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star).

Here women freely confess their preferences for this or that candidate for the triumvirate, edileship, decemvirate or some other public office. A number of the inscriptions are plainly of nocturnal origin: "Thou with the lantern, hold my ladder firmly."

Three gladiatorial notices appear on the front of a house once occupied by Trebio Valente. "Gneus Alleius Nigidius Malus, at the quinquennial games, without expense to the public, will stage combats between twenty pairs of gladiators and their substitutes, Pompeius, Savellius, Tigillus and Clodius."

The second informs us of a similar combat, adding the information that "there will be a combat with ferocious beasts and the velarium will be stretched across the amphitheater to keep off the sun."

The third, still more picturesque, invites the public to a spectacle which will be given in the amphitheater to celebrate the dedication of the public archives in the Forum of Pompeii. It tells us that Gneus Alleius Nigidius Malus's gladiators will fight; that there will be a procession, an animal hunt, and that the amphitheater will be protected by the valerium. One odd detail is that the man who wrote the notice has inscribed his name, Ocella, in the "o" of the word "Dedication" and winds the whole thing up with a salutation to his beautiful and beloved Nigra, whose likeness he has painted above the salutation.

In another place a hopeless lover laments: "Marcellus loves Proenestina and hath no relief from it." Here also is the wise advice of a moralist: "One should imitate and not envy." Another touches us as evidence of the warm friendships of the ancients: "On this spot we two have become brothers, very dear and forever."

But perhaps the most serene of all and the most despairing beneath its profound wisdom is this, written by some unknown philosopher from the depths of his experience. "Nothing can last for eternity. The moon at its full may disappear the next instant; and behold how the sun, which but now arose, is vanishing into the sea."

Moral Effect

It was at the end of the third race and the bookmakers had been doing very badly. Having paid out practically all he had, one bookie found himself confronted by a hefty-looking individual, who presented a demand for payment of 5 to 1 in tenners, and just behind this individual was another little man to whom the bookie's liabilities amounted to more than $100. The bookie jumped down and rushed at the bigger fellow:

"I'll see you hanged first!" And with that he hit the claimant a terrific blow which stretched him out.

"An', now, wot do you want?" he yelled, turning to the meek man. "I—I," spluttered the little chap, as he slipped his ticket back into his pocket. "I—I only came up to say that I thought it served that other chap jolly well right!"

Step on It

Kathryn, aged four, was enjoying her first big trip with her parents. After traveling by automobile, train and boat, they arrived on a Sunday at Mackinaw island. Her parents decided to go to the little white Mission church to rest and meditate. Kathryn was restless and fidgety. The minister mounted the steps of the pulpit, then stood lost in thought for a moment, as he looked over the waiting congregation. A small impatient voice broke the deathlike silence with this question:

"Mother, what's the matter with the engine? Why don't we start?"

Plant Bankhead Highway

The soldier dead of Jefferson county, Alabama, will be honored by the planting of 800 trees along the Bankhead highway. The trees will be water oaks, and each marked with a tablet. The American Tree association of Washington, D. C., says this planting at Birmingham will be but a starter for the highway's beautification plans. The association sends tree day programs and tree-planting suggestions to all organizations planting trees.

POMPEIIANS ALIVE TO VALUE OF PUBLICITYInscriptions on Walls Reveal
Customs and Thoughts.

Let us go into one of the completely uncovered Pompeian streets. The first detail that attracts our attention is the varied decoration of the house fronts. Frescoes, caricatures, illustrated signs, drawings, inscriptions—this extraordinary imagery gives what one might call malicious eyes to every wall and a most persuasive tongue. It is evident that gayety once reigned in this popular thoroughfare, and from the variety of texts inscribed on the walls we understand that, among the passions of the epoch, politics held an important place, writes Edouard Schneider in L'illustration, Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star).

Here women freely confess their preferences for this or that candidate for the triumvirate, edileship, decemvirate or some other public office. A number of the inscriptions are plainly of nocturnal origin: "Thou with the lantern, hold my ladder firmly."

Three gladiatorial notices appear on the front of a house once occupied by Trebio Valente. "Gneus Alletius Nigidius Malus, at the quinquennial games, without expense to the public, will stage combats between twenty pairs of gladiators and their substitutes. Pompeius, Savellius, Tigillus and Clodius."

The second informs us of a similar combat, adding the information that "there will be a combat with ferocious beasts and the velarium will be stretched across the amphitheater to keep off the sun."

The third, still more picturesque, invites the public to a spectacle which will be given in the amphitheater to celebrate the dedication of the public archives in the Forum of Pompeii. It tells us that Gneus Alletius Nigidius Malus's gladiators will fight; that there will be a procession, an animal hunt, and that the amphitheater will be protected by the valerium. One odd detail is that the man who wrote the notice has inscribed his name, Ocella, in the "o" of the word "Dedicatone" and winds the whole thing up with a salutation to his beautiful and beloved Nigra, whose likeness he has painted above the salutation.

In another place a hopeless lover laments: "Marcellus loves Proenestina and hath no relief from it." Here also is the wise advice of a moralist: "One should imitate and not envy." Another touches us as evidence of the warm friendships of the ancients: "On this spot we two have become brothers, very dear and forever."

But perhaps the most serene of all and the most despairing beneath its profound wisdom is this, written by some unknown philosopher from the depths of his experience. "Nothing can last for eternity. The moon at its full may disappear the next instant; and behold how the sun, which but now arose, is vanishing into the sea."

Moral Effect

It was at the end of the third race and the bookmakers had been doing very badly. Having paid out practically all he had, one bookie found himself confronted by a hefty-looking individual, who presented a demand for payment of 5 to 1 in tenners, and just behind this individual was another little man to whom the bookie's liabilities amounted to more than $100. The bookie jumped down and rushed at the bigger fellow:

"I'll see you hanged first!" And with that he hit the claimant a terrific blow which stretched him out.

"An', now, wot do you want?" he yelled, turning to the meek man.

"I—I," spluttered the little chap, as he slipped his ticket back into his pocket. "I—I only came up to say that I thought it served that other chap jolly well right!"

Step on It

Kathryn, aged four, was enjoying her first big trip with her parents. After traveling by automobile, train and boat, they arrived on a Sunday at Mackinaw island. Her parents decided to go to the little white Mission church to rest and meditate. Kathryn was restless and fidgety. The minister mounted the steps of the pulpit, then stood lost in thought for a moment, as he looked over the waiting congregation. A small impatient voice broke the deathlike silence with this question:

"Mother, what's the matter with the engine? Why don't we start?"

Plant Bankhead Highway

The soldier dead of Jefferson county, Alabama, will be honored by the planting of 800 trees along the Bankhead highway. The trees will be water oaks, and each marked with a tablet. The American Tree association of Washington, D. C., says this planting at Birmingham will be but a starter for the highway's beautification plans. The association sends Tree day programs and tree-planting suggestions to all organizations planting trees.

Saving Due to Habit

If we analyze the psychology or the "why" of saving, we find that saving is, after all, more of a habit than an instinct; at least among humans. Nearly all students of this important subject come to this conclusion.—The Thrift Magazine.

Had Odd Sound
The Dutchman still retained a strong accent, although he had been in the country forty years, and he was a church warden. When the rector complained that a certain parishioner had called him a perfect ass, and asked advice, the reply, though well intentioned, sounded ambiguous:
"All you should do vill pe youst to bray for him, as usual."—London Answers.

SEARCHING WRECKAGE OF LORAIN, O., THEATRE FOR LITTLE VICTIMS OF TORNADO THAT KILLED 100

When the tornado that swept the Lake Erie shore west of Cleveland struck Lorain, the rear wall of the State Theatre, the city's largest amusement place buckled and crashed down tearing in part of the roof. It was reported that a number of children were buried in the ruins.

BROADWAY, MAIN BUSINESS STREET OF LORAIN, O., WHERE 60 LOST THEIR LIVES IN STORM DISASTER

Lorain was the heaviest sufferer from the tornado that swept the Lake Erie shore west of Cleveland for a stretch of forty miles. Its business section was twisted into grotesque shapes and many of its residential sections were shattered. The photo shows a view of Broadway looking north from Sixth St.

Earth's Rotation

It is generally supposed that the nebular or planetesimal matter from which the solar system has developed possessed an original motion of rotation around an axis nearly at right angles to the plane of the ecliptic. The earth and the planets, in general, are supposed still to revolve and to rotate in the same direction as that of the rotation of the original mass.

Subtle Child

Little Elinora, aged nine, who has recently moved from a distant city, corresponds frequently with Mary, who was her closest chum. A few days ago Elinora received a letter from Mary in which she said: "Tell me when your birthday comes, for I want to send you a present. My birthday is next Tuesday."—Youth's Companion.

Boston's Proud Position

On being offered a Boston joke the editor of a humorous weekly proceeded to take the alleged humorist to task in no uncertain manner. "I don't see any point to those whams about the highbrow proclivities of Boston," declared the editor. "They're out of date, to say the least. Boston has won her share of pennants and was once the home of John L. Sullivan."

BRYAN, DAVIS AND McADOO

Mr. Bryan said he was opposed to Mr. Davis because of his corporate connections. He added that he had no plans to take the floor against Mr. Davis if his nomination seemed imminent.

"I have no personal objection of any kind to Mr. Davis," Mr. Bryan said. "He is a man of high character. So is Mr. Coolidge. There is no difference between them."—Associated Press.

Mr. Bryan is opposed to Mr. Davis because of his "corporate connections," but Mr. Bryan has supported Mr. McAdoo.

Mr. Davis is so unfortunate or so sinful as to be one of the attorneys for some of the Morgan interests. He was hired because the directors of Mr. Morgan's enterprises thought he had the best legal brains available. He had no political connections, and was not hired for a political purpose, or for his political influence. He was hired to advise the Morgan company on legal matters.

Mr. McAdoo's "corporate connections" were with one of the big oil companies. He was hired for his political influence. He was paid a fortune as a cash retainer and promised a much bigger one if he "put through" a delicate political deal with the administration of which he had formerly been a member. He was hired to negotiate with his former subordinates, and with an administration of which his father-in-law was the head. He was hired, not for his legal ability, but for the "wires" he could "pull" in dealing with the federal government.

And Mr. Bryan accepts him, oil aroma and all, but turns "thumbs down" on Mr. Davis who frankly admitted his legal connections and said he was proud of them, while Mr. McAdoo concealed his until he was forced to disclose them.

We used to think that Mr. Bryan's judgment on moral issues was sound, whatever his economic judgments may have been. But it begins to look as if his astigmatism sometimes affected his moral judgment as well. If he can stomach Mr. McAdoo there certainly is no reason why he cannot accept Mr. Davis. In fact there are many reasons why he might accept Mr. Davis and yet reject Mr. McAdoo.—Duluth News Tribune.

ARITHMETIC NOT RHETORIC

WHILE a flood of oratory has been flowing forth at the democratic convention concerning the virtues of the democratic party and the wonderful qualities of the various candidates for its nomination, a few figures are currently issued by the administration at Washington that in reality are far more eloquent.

While Senator Pat Harrison, caustically and with far more attention to rhetoric than to reason dwelt on his ideas of the issues, the fundamental issues that really concern the prosperity of the country, were summed up in these dry statistics revealing the status of the country's finances.

The figures indicate the progress that has been steadily made in reducing the burdens of the tax payers. Material reductions have been made in public expenditures under President Coolidge's able direction, yet also an imposing reduction has been made in the public debt. The joint net results inures directly to the citizen who pays the taxes.

It is not the windy claims of partisan electioneering that should or will count with the serious minded voter, thinking over his own and the country's needs of wise stewardship, so much as such figures that tell of wise and economical administration of the country's finances. The flowery rhetoric of the democratic orator may delight the ear but will not have as much weight with the serious voter as the splendid stewardship of President Coolidge.

AN ESSENTIAL PLANK

WHILE the Democrats are battling over the Klan and prohibition planks and the backers of a third party are assembling material that will prove popular with the dissatisfied voters, President Calvin Coolidge made the following statement to a large meeting of government officials: "I am for economy and after that I am for more economy. We must give the people relief from the excessive burdens of taxation." Were President Coolidge given to talking for effect his statement might not carry the weight that it now does. As it is President Coolidge has declared himself for the one real need of the American people and force is added to his declaration by the ability of both himself and his running mate, Gen. Dawes, to bring about the much desired relief.—Bemidji Pioneer.

Egyptians Used Bells

Campanologists attribute the origin of bells to the Egyptians, who are credited with having used percussion instruments to announce the sacred fetes of Osiris. In China bells were known 3,000 years before the birth of Christ, says the Detroit News.

Two Arabs, who journeyed through China in the Ninth century, have handed down an interesting account of the great popular justice bells, then in use throughout the whole of that country.

In each town there was a bell of a large size fixed to the wall above the head of the prince or governor, and to it was attached a rope a mile or so in length and laid so temptingly along the main thoroughfare that the humblest sufferer from injustice seldom hesitated to tug at it without fear. As soon as the bell sounded the governor sent for the petitioner and "serious business, craving quick dispatch" met with instant and honest recognition.

Gardening Among Words

Will our British academy ever be given the power vested in the Academie Française of admitting foreign words into the language?

The academie has now accepted "athlete," "alpenstock" and "football" as genuine "French" words, but, although we use a number of French words in ordinary talk and writing, there is no central authority which can decide on the absorption of these words into the language, says London Tit-Bits.

One of our games, court tennis, is full of French words, like grille, de-dans, tambour, and so forth. A word continually used by us is "coup," and there are many others. Why not separate the sheep from the goats officially?

Lost—the East Wind

An Irish maid came to her mistress and said: "Faith, ma'am, 'tis sorry I am, but I'll be troublin' ye for me wages. I'm favin' the day."

The mistress pressed her for a reason.

"'Tis scared of the master I am, he's that quare in his head."

"Why, Mary, what on earth do you mean?"

"Well, ma'am, 'twas yesterday that I found him on his knees. He was perrin' here and perrin' there, and I says to him, 'Kin I hilly ye, sor?' An' thin he says to me, he says: 'Yis, I'm lookin' fur the Red Dragon an' the East Wind. Kin ye see thin anywhere?' An' so, ma'am, ye'll plaze be givin' me my wages, for I'm scared to stay."—Everybody's Magazine.

Rachel,
the Family
Drudge

By MYRA CURTIS LANE

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

RACHEL RABINOVITCH had slipped out of the crowded tenement for a breath of fresh air. Fresh air in Hester street, crammed with barrows of pushcart men, packed with children swarming all along the streets from end to end! But it was fresher than in the tenement, where her mother was frying fish for the Passover, and five brothers and sisters were making the place hideous with their racket.

And she was wondering whether she would ever go back!

For she knew that she had to make the choice between continuing as the family drudge until her brothers and sisters were grown up, and—escaping it altogether.

The escape? The young man she had met three months before at one of the benches. They had met clandestinely ever since.

Charles Hewitt had been fascinated by the dark Oriental beauty of the Jewish girl. He had seen in her a mind amenable to beauty, refinement, all the things that he could give her. Already his name counted in his profession. He would have made any sacrifice for Rachel.

But no sacrifice was necessary. With a little experience she would grace any man's home. And they were on their way to meet each other, he full of hope, she of doubt and dread.

"If I marry you," she had told him, "I shall never see any of my people again. A girl of my people who marries a Christian makes herself an outcast forever. My father will say prayers for me, as dead, and I shall never be spoken of again."

And she wept as she thought of her father, the patient storekeeper, the student of the Talmud, so mild, so simple, and yet so adamant where matters of religion were concerned.

She could imagine the look of horror on his face when he learned. His execrations—and she had never heard any but tender words from his lips.

And Rachel was on her way to meet her lover, to give him her decision. And even now, when her mind seemed made up to go, a terrible irresolution had her in control.

Love or the bond of family and race? That was her problem as she made her way along Hester street. Two streets to the left, and Charlie would be waiting for her, to hold her in the shelter of his arms and never let her go. And a block further was her father's shop, where he sold vegetables and groceries, resenting the interruption from his studies of the Talmud behind the counter. A dreamer, who would never amount to anything. That was one reason why she was needed at home.

She reached the turning point and peered up through the gathering darkness. At the end of the short block, at the meeting place, she saw Charlie waiting for her, and the sight of him sent a thrill through her. She sobbed. She hesitated. At present he had not detected her among the crowds.

She was going to him, she had made up her mind, but now an irresistible desire came over her to see her father once more before she left him forever. She wanted to see his tender smile and to take the memory of that smile away with her. Irresolutely she turned away and continued along Hester street.

There was the tiny shop, empty, as usual, though a roaring Passover trade was being done by all its neighbors. And there was her father, behind the counter, with his gray beard, his skull cap pulled down over his ears, studying the big book in absorption.

Rachel went to the entrance. But even as she did so he put the Talmud aside with a sigh and came from behind the counter. Rachel opened the door.

"Why, it's my little Rachel!" he exclaimed happily, embracing her. "So the baby had to come to see the old father, no? Why, my child, you are sobbing!"

"N-no I'm not, father," Rachel sobbed.

"Now, now!" He wagged his finger archly. "I know what the trouble is. Too much hard work at home for the little mother. But now we shut up the shop, and tonight we forget all trouble, for this is the holy Passover." Rachel clung to his arm. "Yes, we must forget—we must forget," she sobbed hysterically.

"Oh, possibly an abbreviation of General," said the Boston man.

"No, sah; 'tain't zackly dat," was the reply. "Mah sho'-nough name an' Genesis xxx 23, 'So shall my righteousness answer for me in time to come' Washington Carter, 'but dey jest calls me 'Gen' for short.'—Boston Transcript.

Birds in East Indies

Have Elaborate Homes

But few of our birds go to as much trouble building their nests as the mound birds of the East Indies. They are only about as big as an ordinary barnyard fowl, but they build a mound taller than the tallest man and sometimes fifteen yards round.

The birds work hard until this huge pile is reared, when the hen bird lays her large, red eggs in the heap and the heat hatches them.

The hammer-headed stork of Africa builds what amounts to a three-roomed tenement, made of enormous sticks fixed between the branches of a tree. Any ordinary boy could creep into the lowest compartment, says London Tit-Bits. From this a passage slopes up to another flat decorated with bright pebbles and bleached bones. Above this is the nursery, the walls of which are lined with mud to keep out drafts.

A curious nest is the one the swift-like builds in Borneo, and which is known to commerce as the edible nest of the Chinese ginseng. The bird builds in caverns around the coasts, and nest seekers go with torches and tear them down and export them. It is said that edible nests to the value of $300,000 are imported into China every year. The nest is woven from a secretion the bird produces—hence its food value.

SATURDAY, JULY 5, 1924

BRYAN, DAVIS AND McADOO

Mr. Bryan said he was opposed to Mr. Davis because of his corporate connections. He added that he had no plans to take the floor against Mr. Davis if his nomination seemed imminent.

"I have no personal objection of any kind to Mr. Davis," Mr. Bryan said. "He is a man of high character. So is Mr. Coolidge. There is no difference between them."—Associated Press.

Mr. Bryan is opposed to Mr. Davis because of his "corporate connections," but Mr. Bryan has supported Mr. McAdoo.

Mr. Davis is so unfortunate or so sinful as to be one of the attorneys for some of the Morgan interests. He was hired because the directors of Mr. Morgan's enterprises thought he had the best legal brains available. He had no political connections, and was not hired for a political purpose, or for his political influence. He was hired to advise the Morgan company on legal matters.

Mr. McAdoo's "corporate connections" were with one of the big oil companies. He was hired for his political influence. He was paid a fortune as a cash retainer and promised a much bigger one if he "put through" a delicate political deal with the administration of which he had formerly been a member. He was hired to negotiate with his former subordinates, and with an administration of which his father-in-law was the head. He was hired, not for his legal ability, but for the "wires" he could "pull" in dealing with the federal government.

And Mr. Bryan accepts him, oil aroma and all, but turns "thumbs down" on Mr. Davis who frankly admitted his legal connections and said he was proud of them, while Mr. McAdoo concealed his until he was forced to disclose them.

We used to think that Mr. Bryan's judgment on moral issues was sound, whatever his economic judgments may have been. But it begins to look as if his astigmatism sometimes affected his moral judgment as well. If he can stomach Mr. McAdoo there certainly is no reason why he cannot accept Mr. Davis. In fact there are many reasons why he might accept Mr. Davis and yet reject Mr. McAdoo.—Duluth News Tribune.

J. A. WILSON

TOURS WEST

Writes Interesting Accounts of Auto Trip Through Washington in Letter to Dispatch

VISITING WITH HIS DAUGHTER

Notes Wonderful Progress Made in West Since Trip Twelve Years Ago

Prof. J. A. Wilson, in a letter to the Dispatch, tells of the beauties of Rainer National Forest, and other scenic spots in the state of Washington. Mr. Wilson's letter follows:

I am sending you a skyrocket view of a little automobile trip through the State of Washington, together with a side trip through a little of Oregon. Tuesday, June 24 at 10 o'clock a. m. a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hense, three of their children, and the writer started from Port Angeles on the Straits of Juan de Fuca for Olympia, the Washington state capital 108 miles away. The road was over the Olympic Highway some places cement surface but mostly a good gravel road. For forty miles we drove through a beautiful dairy country to the head of Hood Canal which is a branch of Puget Sound, sixty miles long. It is from one to four miles in width. The highway along this body of water is cut into the face of the Olympic mountains which come abruptly down to the water. Forests of big fir trees makes this a most interesting trip. From Shelton at the foot of this so-called canal twenty miles of beautiful farms is an enjoyable drive after the trip through the rugged Olympics.

Twelve years ago when I visited Olympia I thought it the sleepiest town to be found in America but now is a snappy live town waked up by the throngs of tourists sonnetically passing through attracted by the fine highway and beautiful scenery along Hood Canal.

Olympia to Tacoma on 32 miles of cement through beautiful farms. At Tacoma 141 miles from the starting point we camped in the public camping place, a fine place with excellent accommodations in a grove of big fir trees. Paid fifty cents for parking privilege which was well worth the money.

Seven o'clock Wednesday morning found us on the way to Mt. Rainier sixty-eight miles to Pleasant Valley five thousand feet up Mt. Rainier and still 9,000 feet from the top but as far up as autos can go. For the first thirty or forty miles we had an excellent cement road then the change began, the road climbing up a 5 per cent grade along gashes cut in the face of the almost perpendicular cliffs, short turns around heads of canyons up the Nisqually river to its head under a coffee colored glacier one and a fourth miles from Pleasant Valley but even miles by the road. Near the Glacier we got our passes to enter this part of the National Rainier Forest. For the last nine miles, all traffic is one way for two hours then the other way for two hours the trail being so steep and narrow as to prevent autos passing. At Pleasant Valley is quite a village surrounded by great snow banks with wild flowers blooming between the drifts. We had lunch on a nice warm sunny spot between two big snow drifts. Clouds obscured the summit of the mountain 9,000 feet higher than our dining table. But for two minutes Nature in a kindly mood parted the clouds and permitted us a brief view of the grandeur of the mighty mountain. We had to wait from three o'clock to 5 for the beginning of our downward trip which is more awe inspiring than the upward trip and thrilling beyond the power of the writer to express. At one point we made thirteen switch backs on the face of one mountain slope before reaching the level of the Nisqually. We camped in a beautiful little park on this foaming mountain torrent 30 miles from the Pleasant Valley camp.

Thursday morning 7 o'clock found us entering on a new highway south through untouched forests of giant firs, many trees fifteen feet in diameter 150 high, striking the Tacoma-Portland cement highway 20 miles north of Toledo, Washington. Seven o'clock we entered the auto camp in Portland, Oregon, 10 miles from our camp on the Nisqually. Paid fifty cents for camp fee and got our money's worth.

Friday morning at 7 o'clock we were on our way to Charley Metcalf's on Hood River over the Columbia highway perhaps the most perfect road in the world but uphill the whole way. We had a royal welcome by Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf. They have a beautiful home in plain sight of Mt. Adams to the north, 13,600 feet elevation with Mt. Hood to the south snow clad to the summit, 13,500 elevation with apples, apples everywhere. Trees loaded with Newtons, Snow and Spitzenberg apples and cherries—big black Lamberts—two cars being loaded at the time with perfect cherries for the New York market. Cherry picking was about finished. Charley could not give the quantity he was shipping but his neighbors told me his shipment for the season was over eight tons. Saturday morning we hated to leave the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf but our time was getting short so we were on the return trip at 7 o'clock. We had dinner in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynch in Portland. Mrs. Lynch was formerly Miss Reta Jones a sister of Mrs. H. J. Wilson of Brainerd.

Saturday night we spent in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guderyon, a brother-in-law of Mr. Hense, one mile north of Centralia one of the beauty spots of Washington. Mr. Guderyon's father came to this country in 1866 when but three cabins marked the site of the beautiful city of Centralia. This is a dairy farm noted for its milkling strain of short horns. Alfalfa seems to be the foundation of the man's prosperity.

Seven o'clock Sunday morning we arrived at the Hense home in Port Angeles. It was a trip of 840 miles largely through mountains and forests of cedars and along tumultuous mountain streams.

The first week in July the U. S. Pacific Fleet of war vessels is assembling in the Port Angeles harbor for its annual maneuvers. Thirteen destroyers coming in yesterday. I have had a great time but I am beginning to long for my home in Brainerd.

In my travels I have noticed that it takes work to make a living and to make a home anywhere.

County Highway Engineer Issues Weekly Report on Roads Under His Supervision

ALL IN GOOD SHAPE

State Road No. 1 Now Open to Belle Prairie and Will be Used as Detour For 27

Roads throughout the county under the supervision of County Highway Engineer, Walter M. Murphy, are in good condition, according to the weekly report issued from Mr. Murphy's office, which is as follows:

State Road No. 1. (13th street to Morrison county line) This road is in good condition, has just been dragged and will be used as a detour from Belle Prairie on Trunk Highway No. 27. Can be traveled now its entire length.

State Road No. 2. (Dewey highway) Runs through southern tip of townships and is narrow but in fair shape. Has just been dragged.

State Road No. 3. (Brainerd, Merrifield, Cross Lake, Emily) Brainerd to Merrifield under construction. This work has been completed to within about a mile of river bridge, surface good. Contract to be completed in two weeks. Merrifield to Cross Lake, excellent. Next two miles sandy, balance of way to Cross Lake, fine.

State Road No. 4. (Crosby, Emily north to Cass county line) Crosby to river bridge road winding and narrow. New construction being started near river bridge, road will be open for travel at all times while under construction. Bridge to Fairfield town line road is rutty, due to heavy hauling done by the Phoenix tility Co. To Emily, very good. To Cass county line, good.

State Road No. 5. (Deerwood, Bay lake and south) Road is excellent its entire length. Affords very scenic drive along lake shore. Considered to be one of the best scenic drives in the state.

meets with Trunk highway No. 18 at Workman corner.

All whiteline roads are in good condition, those in the northern part of the county, being sandy, need rain. Attention is called to those which have been treated with marl surfacing, they being superior to all others.

AMUSEMENTS

Hoot Gibson is expressive of one of the most tragic incidents of anti-war history in his latest starring vehicle "Shootin' for Love," which was shown for the first time locally at the Lyceum Theatre yesterday and is being repeated tonight.

He appears in the role of a Texas youth who returned from many months of fierce fighting with the A. E. F. unscathed, but a victim of the dread malady, shell-shock. The youth has always been known as a "fighting fool" and when he shows such abject fear at every report of a gun, which was frequent in his country, his action was misconstrued by his father, an old time cattleman, who knew nothing of his son's illness, because that youth did not see fit to confess to it.

This adaptation of Homer Croy's sensational novel will be shown at the Lyceum Sunday, continuing 3 days.

"Girl Shy," showing at the New Park tonight, Sunday and Monday, (three days), serves to introduce Harold Lloyd in an entirely new characterization for him. He plays the role of a bashful youth, apprehensive to a small-town tailor. Secretly he studies girls, and the more he studies them, the more he fears them. Nobody, it would seem, should be shy in the presence of two such charming bits of femininity as are pictured here, but Harold certainly does not look at ease. "Girl Shy" is reported by all those who have had the privilege of seeing it in previews to be Lloyd's greatest and funniest feature Pathescomedy.

Writes Interesting Accounts of Auto Trip Through Washington in Letter to Dispatch

VISITING WITH HIS DAUGHTER

Notes Wonderful Progress Made in West Since Trip Twelve Years Ago

Prof. J. A. Wilson, in a letter to the Dispatch, tells of the beauties of Rainer National Forest, and other scenic spots in the state of Washington. Mr. Wilson's letter follows:

I am sending you a skyrocket view of a little automobile trip through the State of Washington, together with a side trip through a little of Oregon. Tuesday, June 24 at 10 o'clock a. m. a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hense, three of their children, and the writer started from Port Angeles on the Straits of Juan de Fuca for Olympia, the Washington state capital 108 miles away. The road was over the Olympic Highway some places cement surface but mostly a good gravel road. For forty miles we drove through a beautiful dairy country to the head of Hood Canal which is a branch of Puget Sound, sixty miles long. It is from one to four miles in width. The highway along this body of water is cut into the face of the Olympic mountains which come abruptly down to the water. Forests of big fir trees makes this a most interesting trip. From Shelton at the foot of this so-called canal twenty miles of beautiful farms is an enjoyable drive after the trip through the rugged Olympics.

Twelve years ago when I visited Olympia I thought it the sleepiest town to be found in America but now is a snappy live town waked up by the throngs of tourists constantly passing through attracted by the fine highway and beautiful scenery along Hood Canal.

Olympia to Tacoma on 32 miles of cement through beautiful farms. At Tacoma 141 miles from the starting point we camped in the public camping place, a fine place with excellent accommodations in a grove of big fir trees. Paid fifty cents for parking privilege which was well worth the money.

Seven o'clock Wednesday morning found us on the way to Mt. Rainier sixty-eight miles to Pleasant Valley five thousand feet up Mt. Rainier and still 9,000 feet from the top but as far up as autos can go. For the first thirty or forty miles we had an excellent cement road then the change began, the road climbing up a 5 per cent grade along gashes cut in the face of the almost perpendicular cliffs, short turns around heads of canyons up the Nisqually river to its head under a coffee colored glacier one and a fourth miles from Pleasant Valley but a even miles by the road. Near the Glacier we got our passes to enter this part of the National Rainier Forest. For the last five miles, all traffic is one way for two hours then the other way for two hours the trail being so steep and narrow as to prevent autos passing. At Pleasant Valley is quite a village surrounded by great snow banks with wild flowers blooming between the drifts. We had lunch on a nice warm sunny spot between two big snow drifts. Clouds obscured the summit of the mountain 9,000 feet higher than our dining table. WELCOME 75,000

ELKS JULY 7

CITY IS GAILY DECORATED FOR
THE ANNUAL CONVEN-
TIONAN ELABORATE PROGRAM
AWAITS THE GUESTS

(By United Press)

Boston, July 5.—Seventy-five thousand members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, their friends and families, it was estimated, were either here, or nearing this city today for the opening, Monday, of the Elks' national convention.

The convention will continue through until Saturday.

Every train entering the two railroad terminals carried hundreds of "Bills," their wives and children, while other hundreds entered this old city in motor cars, flying Elks pennants, and guided over the roads by signs indicating the "Elks' Trail" to Boston.

It is expected that the convention will bring to this city nearly a quarter of a million people. Practically every hotel in and about the city has been taken over for the most part to house the visiting Elks, while there are countless others who will be entertained at the homes of members of the Boston lodge and of lodges in nearby cities.

For the past few months, members of various committees have been working night and day to make certain that the 1924 Elks' gathering will not only be a success, but the best in the history of the order. Entertainments of all kinds will be provided, including sightseeing trips to the many historic spots in and around Greater Boston, naval exhibitions in the harbor, dancing, boat trips to the many shore resorts, golf tournaments, yacht races, elaborate and spectacular fireworks and electrical displays, and the famous Elks parade.

The Elks' Parade

One of the features, if not the main feature of the entire convention, will be the parade on Thursday afternoon. It is planned to make the parade the most picturesque ever held at a Grand Lodge convention. According to all indications there will be upwards of 20,000 marchers.

The parade will form in Boston's ultra-fashionable Back Bay, and will move down Commonwealth avenue, Adlington and Beacon streets to the State House, where Governor Channing H. Cox, a member of Boston Lodge, No. 10, and other state officials, will review it. At a stand along Tremont street not far from the State House, Mayor James M. Curley, also a member of the Boston lodge, city officials and others, will watch the marchers. The parade will then proceed along Tremont street to Boylston street, to Park Square and along Stuart street, where it will be reviewed by James G. MacFarland of Watertown, S. D., grand exalted ruler, and members of the Grand Lodge.

Elks and their friends throughout the country, who are unable to attend the convention, but who are owners of radio sets, will be able to "listen in" to nearly all that will take place during the week. Station WNAAC, Boston, will broadcast Elks news and events during the convention.

The opening services in Trinity Church tomorrow evening will be sent over the radio. The services will be conducted by Rev. John Dysart of Jamestown, N. Y., grand chaplain of the order. The opening exercises in Mechanics Building Monday evening will be radiocasted. At these exercises addresses will be delivered by United States Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Governor Cox, Mayor Curley and others. Mayor Curley will give the 11 o'clock toast, "To Our Absent Brothers."

Radio at Parade

The radio will also be brought in to use during the parade on Thursday, when a microphone will be installed at a reviewing stand, through which the "listeners-in" throughout the country will be able to hear the bands as they approach and depart. As each delegation approaches, as each delegation passes the stand the fact will be announced.

Boston presents a gala appearance in honor of the visiting Elks. Nearly all the buildings in the downtown sections are decorated.

While the decorative scheme will be carried out in detail on Boston Common, where many of the outdoor features will be presented, the illumination of the Common is expected will surpass anything ever before attempted in this city.

All the buildings occupied by the Boston Elks during the convention have been decorated inside and out, and these include the Elks Home on Somerset street; Tremont Temple, where the Grand Lodge sessions will be held, and others. Elaborate floral displays are to be seen in the Public Gardens and on the triangular grass plot in Copley Square, in front of the Copley Plaza hotel, convention headquarters.

Old Smith
Soldiers

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

(By 1924 Western Newspaper Union)

WE BOYS were all dreadfully afraid of Old Man Smith. He lived in a little house round the corner all alone. He had a married daughter who used to call and quarrel with him every week or so.

"That Simpson woman's trying to get Old Man Smith declared senile, so that she can get her hands on his property," my father said. "He's as sensible as you or me."

I didn't understand what that meant. To us boys Old Man Smith was a constant invitation to deeds of heroism. It was an achievement to throw a handful of sand against his windows and scot away as his angry face appeared, to listen to his threats bawled after us.

"Bet you don't dare knock on Old Man Smith's door and run, Skinny!"

"Bet you I do!"

"Let's see you!"

I set off, my heart beating swiftly, to execute the dare. I was caught. The first stroke of the knocker had hardly resounded when the door opened suddenly. Old Man Smith stretched out a long arm and hauled me inside. I was sure my last hour had come.

"Oh please, Old Man Smith, I won't do it again if you'll let me go!" I howled.

Old Man Smith stood looking at me queerly. "Ever play soldiers?" he asked.

"Sure, when I got them," I answered, more confidently.

He led me into a back room. The floor was covered with soldiers, regiments of them, with cannon and fortresses.

"Come on, let's have a game," said Old Man Smith, handing me a pen-shooter.

As soon as my terror had worn off I flung myself into the game. We played for hours, as it seemed. I forgot that my opponent was Old Man Smith.

"Run home now, Johnny, and come back when you feel like it," said Old Man Smith. "It's so long since I was a boy."

"Did you play soldiers then?" I asked.

"Never had any. This is our secret, Johnny; don't you let on!"

I agreed, and, thrilled with our secret, departed.

"Gee, Skinny, what'd he do to you?" asked the boys.

"Took me inside and gave me candies and cakes and picture books," I lied.

I was a hero after that. My weekly visits to Old Man Smith's house were the subject of awe and admiration. And I drew on my imagination to my playfellows.

We played soldiers, we marched round the table, blowing the trumpet and banging drums. And there was one afternoon when we scooted round the big back yard together, laughing and tumbling down like two kids, instead of an old man and a boy. I quite forgot that Old Man Smith wasn't my age at all.

"I never did this when I was a boy," said Old Man Smith. "We do have a good time, don't we, Johnny? But you must never tell! If that cat found out—" I didn't know which cat he meant.

I never had so much money as in those days. There was a silver dollar for me every week when I went away. One day a strange lady stopped me in the street.

"You are Mr. Smith's friend, aren't you, boy?" she asked.

"Yes'm."

"What do you do when you go to see him?"

"Oh, we play things." I had quite forgotten Mr. Smith's injunction. The strange lady smiled at me.

"Do you like ice cream, boy?"

I admitted I did. So she took me to an ice-cream shop and stuffed me with ice cream and cakes, and I told her everything Old Man Smith and I did together.

Next week when I went to play the house was closed. I thought Old Man Smith must have gone for a holiday.

"That Simpson woman's had her father taken away as senile," said my father to my mother that night. "They took him off today."

"Good gracious!" my mother exclaimed.

"I guess he was. They found the house full of children's toys."

I didn't understand. I went to the house every day for weeks, looking for my friend. But Old Man Smith never came back.

Homes for Aged

Accounts are not very definite concerning the establishment of the first home exclusively for the aged. In England in early days and in Germany at the end of the Seventeenth century there were hospitals to which the aged and infirm could go. Such a hospital was founded by St. Cross near Winchester, England, in 1136, and another, the Coningsby hospital at Hereford, was founded in 1614.

BAPTIST MINISTER GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

No greater praise can be accorded a medicine than the voluntary testimony of a minister of the gospel. The preacher's high calling puts a grave responsibility on his every word, and he will not jeopardize his reputation by commending a thing without first assuring himself it is all right.

Tanlac has been endorsed by numbers of prominent ministers. They have put Tanlac to the test of personal service and their words carry conviction because they say what they know to be the truth.

One of the latest to speak out in behalf of Tanlac is Rev. B. E. Bell, a retired Baptist minister, 207 Elm St., San Antonio, Texas, who says:

"Before taking Tanlac I had suffered from stomach and nerve troubles for over 30 years and there were times when my condition was such that it required almost superhuman effort for me to prepare my sermons and go through with my Sunday services. Indeed, my work seemed like some great obstacle across my pathway—a burden too big to carry in my weak physical condition."

"But in six weeks' time Tanlac transformed my entire outlook, giving me what seemed like a new set of nerves and a brand new digestive system. My appetite became ravenous, my nerves steady, my liver action regular and I could sleep sound for the first time in years. Whenever I have the slightest symptoms of trouble I always resort to Tanlac, am taking some at present, and it never fails to smooth things out for me. I certainly have the best of reasons for feeling grateful to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

CITY IS DAILY DECORATED FOR
THE ANNUAL CONVEN-

AN ELABORATE PROGRAM
AWAITS THE GUESTS

(By United Press)

Boston, July 5.—Seventy-five thousand members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, their friends and families, it was estimated, were either here, or nearing this city today for the opening, Monday, of the Elks' national convention.

The convention will continue through until Saturday.

Every train entering the two railroad terminals carried hundreds of "Bills," their wives and children, while other hundreds entered this old city in motor cars, flying Elk pennants, and guided over the roads by signs indicating the "Elks' Trail" to Boston.

It is expected that the convention will bring to this city nearly a quarter of a million people. Practically every hotel in and about the city has been taken over for the most part to house the visiting Elks, while there are countless others who will be entertained at the homes of members of the Boston lodge and of lodges in nearby cities.

For the past few months, members of various committees have been working night and day to make certain that the 1924 Elks' gathering will not only be a success, but the best in the history of the order. Entertainments of all kinds will be provided, including sightseeing trips to the many historic spots in and around Greater Boston, naval exhibitions in the harbor, dancing, boat trips to the many shore resorts, golf tournaments, yacht races, elaborate and spectacular fireworks and electrical displays, and the famous Elks parade.

The Elks' Parade

One of the features, if not the main feature of the entire convention, will be the parade on Thursday afternoon. It is planned to make the parade the most picturesque ever held at a Grand Lodge convention. According to all indications there will be upwards of 20,000 marchers.

The parade will form in Boston's ultra-fashionable Back Bay, and will move down Commonwealth avenue, Adlington and Beacon streets to the State House, where Governor Channing H. Cox, a member of Boston Lodge, No. 10, and other state officials, will review it. At a stand along Tremont street not far from the State House, Mayor James M. Curley, also a member of the Boston lodge, city officials and others, will watch the marchers. The parade will then proceed along Tremont street to Boylston street, to Park Square and along Stuart street, where it will be reviewed by James G. MacFarland of Watertown, S. D., grand exalted ruler, and members of the Grand Lodge.

Elks and their friends throughout the country, who are unable to attend the convention, but who are owners of radio sets, will be able to "listen in" to nearly all that will take place during the week. Station WNAC, Boston, will broadcast Elks news and events during the convention.

The opening services in Trinity Church tomorrow evening will be sent over the radio. The services will be conducted by Rev. John Dysart of Jamestown, N. Y., grand chaplain of the order. The opening exercises in Mechanics Building Monday evening will be broadcasted. At these exercises addresses will be delivered by United States Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Governor Cox, Mayor Curley and others. Mayor Curley will give the 11 o'clock toast, "To Our Absent Brothers."

Radio at Parade

The radio will also be brought in to use during the parade on Thursday, when a microphone will be installed at a reviewing stand, through which the "listeners-in" throughout the country will be able to hear the bands as they approach and depart. As each delegation approaches, as each delegation passes the stand the fact will be announced.

Boston presents a gala appearance in honor of the visiting Elks. Nearly all the buildings in the downtown sections are decorated.

While the decorative scheme will be carried out in detail on Boston Common, where many of the outdoor features will be presented, the illumination of the Common is expected will surpass anything ever before attempted in this city.

All the buildings occupied by the Boston Elks during the convention have been decorated inside and out, and these include the Elks Home on Somerset street; Tremont Temple, where the Grand Lodge sessions will be held, and others. Elaborate floral displays are to be seen in the Public Gardens and on the triangular grass plot in Copley Square, in front of the Copley Plaza hotel, convention headquarters.

Old Smith and His Toy Soldiers

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

WE BOYS were all dreadfully afraid of Old Man Smith. He lived in a little house round the corner all alone. He had a married daughter who used to call and quarrel with him every week or so.

"That Simpson woman's trying to get Old Man Smith declared senile, so that she can get her hands on his property," my father said. "He's as sensible as you or me."

I didn't understand what that meant. To us boys Old Man Smith was a constant invitation to deeds of heroism. It was an achievement to throw a handful of sand against his windows and scold away as his angry face appeared, to listen to his threats bawled after us.

"Bet you don't dare knock on Old Man Smith's door and run, Skinny!" "Bet you I do!" "Let's see you!"

I set off, my heart beating swiftly, to execute the dare. I was caught. The first stroke of the knocker had hardly resounded when the door opened suddenly. Old Man Smith stretched out a long arm and hauled me inside. I was sure my last hour had come.

"Oh please, Old Man Smith, I won't do it again if you'll let me go!" I howled.

Old Man Smith stood looking at me queerly. "Ever play soldiers?" he asked.

"Sure, when I got them," I answered, more confidently.

He led me into a back room. The floor was covered with soldiers, regiments of them, with cannon and fortresses.

"Come on, let's have a game," said Old Man Smith, handing me a peashooter.

As soon as my terror had worn off I flung myself into the game. We played for hours, as it seemed. I forgot that my opponent was Old Man Smith.

"Run home now, Johnny, and come back when you feel like it," said Old Man Smith. "It's so long since I was a boy."

"Did you play soldiers then?" I asked.

"Never had any. This is our secret, Johnny; don't you let on!" I agreed, and, thrilled with our secret, departed.

"Gee, Skinny, what'd he do to you?" asked the boys.

"Took me inside and give me candies and cakes and picture books," I lied.

I was a hero after that. My weekly visits to Old Man Smith's house were the subject of awe and admiration. And I drew on my imagination to my playfellows.

We played soldiers, we marched round the table, blowing the trumpet and banging drums. And there was one afternoon when we scooted round the big back yard together, laughing and tumbling down like two kids, instead of an old man and a boy. I quite forgot that Old Man Smith wasn't my age at all.

"I never did this when I was a boy," said Old Man Smith. "We do have a good time, don't we, Johnny? But you must never tell! If that cat found out—" I didn't know which cat he meant.

I never had so much money as in those days. There was a silver dollar for me every week when I went away. One day a strange lady stopped me in the street.

"You are Mr. Smith's friend, aren't you, boy?" she asked.

"Yes'm."

"What do you do when you go to see him?"

"Oh, we play things." I had quite forgotten Mr. Smith's injunction. The strange lady smiled at me.

"Do you like ice cream, boy?"

I admitted I did. So she took me to an ice-cream shop and stuffed me with ice cream and cakes, and I told her everything Old Man Smith and I did together.

Next week when I went to play the house was closed. I thought Old Man Smith must have gone for a holiday.

"That Simpson woman's had her father taken away as senile," said my father to my mother that night. "They took him off today."

"Good gracious!" my mother exclaimed.

"I guess he was. They found the house full of children's toys."

I didn't understand. I went to the house every day for weeks, looking for my friend. But Old Man Smith never came back.

Homes for Aged

Accounts are not very definite concerning the establishment of the first home exclusively for the aged. In England in early days and in Germany at the end of the Seventeenth century there were hospitals to which the aged and infirm could go. Such a hospital was founded by St. Cross near Winchester, England, in 1136, and another, the Coningsby hospital at Hereford, was founded in 1614.

BAPTIST MINISTER GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

No greater praise can be accorded a medicine than the voluntary testimony of a minister of the gospel. The preacher's high calling puts a grave responsibility on his every word, and he will not jeopardize his reputation by commending a thing without first assuring himself it is all right.

Tanlac has been endorsed by numbers of prominent ministers. They have put Tanlac to the test of personal service and their words carry conviction because they say what they know to be the truth.

One of the latest to speak out in behalf of Tanlac is Rev. B. E. Bell, a retired Baptist minister, 207 Elm St., San Antonio, Texas, who says:

"Before taking Tanlac I had suffered from stomach and nerve troubles for over 30 years and there were times when my condition was such that it required almost superhuman effort for me to prepare my sermons and go through with my Sunday services. Indeed, my work seemed like some great obstacle across my pathway—a burden too big to carry in my weak physical condition.

"But in six weeks' time Tanlac transformed my entire outlook, giving me what seemed like a new set of nerves and a brand new digestive system. My appetite became ravenous, my nerves steady, my liver action regular and I could sleep sound

12,000 ATTEND THE LEGION CELEBRATION

Nation's Birthday Fittingly Observed
In an All-Day Program at Lum
Park on Friday

"LARRY HO" SPEAKER OF DAY
Thrilled His Audience in a Strong
Patriotic Address That Will
Long be Remembered

Twelve thousand people and three thousand automobiles is the estimate placed on the attendance at Brainerd's Fourth of July celebration, said to be the most glorious Fourth that has been observed in Northern Minnesota for many years, making it one long to be remembered.

The weather man was exceptionally generous in dealing out an ideal day for the celebration. Not a cloud appeared on the horizon, and many remarked on the fact that this was the first Fourth of July that was not marred with at least a short thunder storm.

The crowds came early, the park being well filled at nine o'clock in the morning. A large majority of the faces were those of strangers showing that people who seldom visit this city, came for miles to observe the nation's holiday.

The American Legion deserves a great deal of credit for the excellent manner in which the program of the day was carried out. Every committee did excellent work in preparing for the event and in handling the many numbers on the program. The large crowd was very orderly and the police had little trouble in their work. Everything was staged as per schedule, and went off like clockwork from start to finish. The visitors seemed to be in high good humor and enjoyed the holiday to the fullest extent.

To give an idea as to the number of cars that came to Lum park for this day, just imagine as many cars as could be parked around the park, and then park the rest of them all the way down in single file on one side and double in some places, the bridge over the hill and you will have some idea of the number of the people and the cars.

The Brainerd Boy's Band under the direction of Hugo Puck furnished excellent music and each and every boy in this organization is to be complimented and certainly must be proud to belong to a band of this kind. They led the parade at the park followed by the doll floats, then the business men's floats, while the rear was brought up by the fraternal orders. The miniature novelty parade excited admiration from all present and had more merchants and people known the exact nature of this novelty there is no doubt but that there would have been many more floats.

In the prizes given out for the parade, Little George E. Riley won first prize, the Singer Sewing machine company won 1st prize in the business men's floats. N. E. Community store won 2nd prize and the Woolworth 5 & 10 cent store won 3rd prize. Other floats in the parade were as follows: Judd Wright & Son, Brainerd Office Supply Co., Alderman-Magham Hardware, William Hooper Cigar Co., John M. Bye, Clothing Company, Peterson Clothing Company, Gruenhagen Hardware, Pilsom Music Company. In the fraternal orders the Elk's club won 1st prize while the Lions club had to be satisfied with 2nd. There were no boy's dogs in the parade which was very unusual for almost every boy has a dog and takes a great pride in showing him.

The good dance music attracted great throngs and was busy all the time, these musicians are due a large amount of credit for their valiant efforts.

Mrs. Floyd Thompson, a vaudeville star, formerly with Lottie Meyer's famous troupe of "Sandwiches" which toured the country from coast to coast on Pantages Vaudeville Circuit, gave an exhibition of difficult and fancy diving both in the afternoon and evening. The committee was extremely fortunate in securing the services of this accomplished diver who has for years done her diving in a glass tank from great heights on the stage. This performance was greatly enjoyed and added much to the day's events.

American Legion Women's Auxiliary come in for enormous credit for several tableaux displayed, namely Betsy Ross and the Flag, Liberty Star Spangled Banner, one person in each of the following characters: Civil war veteran, Spanish war veteran, a World War Doughboy, Sailor, Marine, Red Cross, Girl scout. Mrs. W. S. Orne made several attempts to secure a Boy Scout but for some reason or other the scout failed to show up, thus leaving out one of the characters in our daily life that we are so well acquainted with.

In the Liberty tableau, special mention must be given to Helen M. Stadelbauer, Betty Krause, Mary Katherine O'Brien and Donna Dennis. In the Betsy Ross and the Flag tableau special mention is given to Mrs. Oberst and Mary Horner.

Capt. Erick Graff and Officer Oscar Risberg are to be complimented on their good work in keeping down the order. Due to the presence of these two officers of the law very little rowdism, if any appeared, in fact disorders of any kind were very conspicuous by their very absence. In addition to their other duties they acted as nursemaids to wandering children who strived their best to lose themselves in the park, forestalled in their efforts by the watchful eyes of these two officers.

Much credit is due Joe Jones for constructing the raft as well as furnishing the material for the burning raft, thus relieving the committee of expense and lots of hard work.

The city sprinkling department was on the job bright and early and sprinkled the road leading to Lum park from the edge of the pavement to the top of the hill. The department was on the job until the traffic became too heavy for the sprinkling. By eliminating the dust and packing down the gravel, travel to the park was made much easier under the strain of so many cars kicking up the dust.

Two clowns kept the children as well as the older folks in a continuous uproar. The N. E. Brainerd Tigers made the rounds of the park in a truck with the clowns and a "Rube" band.

The big fireworks of both the day and night displays were very much enjoyed and showed a great amount of labor was done by this committee.

J. M. Card chairman of the parade committee, Ben N. Anderson, Dave Goodnature and Wm. Conklin, assistants, after handling the parade had charge of the dance where 152 dance tickets were sold, reported a very successful afternoon and evening. $20.00 in prize boxes of choice candy donated from the following: candy kitchens in Brainerd were given out; DeSmith's, new store 611 and Laurel, Princess Candy Kitchen, Olympia Candy Kitchen, Brainerd Candy Kitchen and Lammon's Pharmacy.

The big feature of the day was the speech given by L. O. Hodgson. His speech dealt principally with patriotism and patriotism. He is not only a strong speaker but a wonderful orator and at different times throughout the audience there was not a dry eye. The things he brought out so vividly will long be remembered. He told of some teachers and professor in this country who even went so far as to try and teach the little children that the Revolutionary War and the Declaration of Independence were a fizzle. Why the 4th of July is our birthday as a country and is as important as our own birthday which in a few words tells our life's story. The committee responsible for securing this wonderful speaker is sure to be complimented.

The American Legion as a whole is to be highly complimented on for their hard work and such a successful Fourth of July.

Help From Outside State

MR. O'BRIEN RESPONDS
Relief Work in Stricken Ohio City to be Under the Direction of the Red Cross

Mayor Con O'Brien yesterday received the following telegram from George Hoffman, mayor of Lorraine, Ohio, the city that is suffering acutely from the ravages of the storm of a week ago today:

"Lorraine is sorely stricken. Loss will largely fall upon people homeless and without resources. Ohio's governor is acting to secure aid throughout state. This will not suffice. Lorraine needs every contribution possible from municipalities or individuals. Send contributions to Lorraine chapter, Red Cross. National Red Cross will supervise distribution."

Mayor O'Brien responded to this urgent request for aid, with his personal check for $100.

Any other local citizens, who wish to make a donation to this cause are asked to do so immediately, as the need is pressing.

CHURCH CONFERENCE AT PAYNESVILLE, MINN.

The Assembly Grounds of the Evangelical church, located two miles from Paynesville, Minn., will soon see activities in connection with the seven days' Presbyterian summer conference, which takes place from July 7 to 13. These spacious and attractive grounds are on the shore of Lake Koonis. Delegates should arrive by Monday afternoon, July 7. The first conference session is Monday evening; the last is Sunday evening, July 13. Delegates are expected to remain until Monday morning July 14. Provision will be made to transport delegates from Paynesville to the conference grounds.

The church's endorsement of each delegate is required on the registration blank, and is the assurance that the delegate has been officially appointed, understands the conference program and accepts conference standards. Miss Helen Dillon, Miss Georgia Brown, Mrs. Patterson, Mark Peterson, and the Rev. A. G. Patterson will leave Brainerd on Monday morning to attend this conference.

Mrs. Clark leaves 5 children: Mrs. A. N. Lovstad of Brainerd, Mrs. E. J. Miller, Mrs. L. N. Scott, William G. Clark of Seattle, Mrs. Ernest Porteus of Kirkland, Wash., and a brother John Gordon of Brainerd. Mrs. Clark moved away in 1905 to Seattle.

Problem!
Sunday afternoon—the third class was over. The teacher was standing by the door saying good-by to all the bright little darlings who had listened so attentively to her discourse.

"Good-by, Susie!" she said, with a sweet smile to one small child.

"Good-by, teacher," came the shrill reply, and then she added with pride "It's my birthday tomorrow!"

"Why," returned the teacher, "it's mine, too!"

The little girl's face was clouded with perplexity as she answered "How did you get so much bigger?"

NOTES ON RECENT PEONY EXHIBITION

Any Flower Shown Here Can Be Successfully Grown in Brainerd, is Claim of Expert

DULUTH SHOW JULY 14 AND 15

Lake Port is Widely Known For The Beautiful Peonies That Are
Grown in That City

As an aftermath of Brainerd's first Peony and Garden Flower show, held on Wednesday and Thursday, many gardeners are taking A. T. Wilkus timely advice, and are "feeding" their peonies. Mr. Wilkus called attention to the fact that the peonies will, from now until August 15th, develop the roots which are to produce the plants next year and that the blooms for next year will be determined by the care that the peonies receive during this period.

The proprietor of the Riverview Gardens further recommends frequent cultivation, plenty of water and about three handfuls of bone meal and one of slacked lime about each plant, care being taken not to let the fertilizer touch the stem of the plant. This treatment will make prize blooms next year.

The H. F. Michael Co., will be pleased to have vases of blooms for display in their windows. The company believes that this will stimulate flower growing in Brainerd and will help "Make Minnesota Blossom." It is requested that the blooms be brought to the store in the mornings.

The Duluth Peony show will be held on July 14th and 15th. Brainerd fans will be much interested in this announcement and many will doubtless visit this show, as Duluth is widely noted for its peonies.

It should be remembered that there was not a peony shown at the local show that cannot be raised in Brainerd if care is given to the development of the plant, and this development is an interesting process.

The forming of a peony or garden flower organization for this community was left in the hands of L. P. Hall of Bay Lake. Mr. Hall is giving the matter careful attention and hopes for an organization which will include all of Crow Wing county. If the peony show is to be made an annual event, it will be through this organization.

12,000 ATTEND THE LEGION CELEBRATION

Nation's Birthday Fittingly Observed
In an All-Day Program at Lum
Park on Friday

"LARRY HO" SPEAKER OF DAY

Thrilled His Audience in a Strong
Patriotic Address That Will
Long be Remembered

Twelve thousand people and three thousand automobiles is the estimate placed on the attendance at Brainerd's Fourth of July celebration, said to be the most glorious Fourth that has been observed in Northern Minnesota for many years, making it one long to be remembered.

The weather man was exceptionally generous in dealing out an ideal day for the celebration. Not a cloud appeared on the horizon, and many remarked on the fact that this was the first Fourth of July that was not marred with at least a short thunder storm.

The crowds came early, the park being well filled at nine o'clock in the morning. A large majority of the faces were those of strangers showing that people who seldom visit this city, came for miles to observe the nation's holiday.

The American Legion deserves a great deal of credit for the excellent manner in which the program of the day was carried out. Every committee did excellent work in preparing for the event and in handling the many numbers on the program. The large crowd was very orderly and the police had little trouble in their work. Everything was staged as per schedule, and went off like clockwork from start to finish. The visitors seemed to be in high good humor and enjoyed the holiday to the fullest extent.

To give an idea as to the number of cars that came to Lum park for this day, just imagine as many cars as could be parked around the park and then park the rest of them all the way down in single file on one side and double in some places, to the bridge over the fall and you will have some idea of the number of the people and the cars.

The Brainerd Boy's Band under the direction of Hugo Pfock furnished excellent music and each and every boy in this organization is to be complimented and certainly must be proud to belong to a band of this kind. They led the parade at the park followed by the doll floats, then the business men's floats, while the rear was brought up by the fraternal orders. The miniature novelty parade exacted admiration from all present and had more merchants and people known the exact nature of this novelty there is no doubt but that there would have been many more floats.

In the prizes given out for the parade, Little George E. Riley won first prize, the Singer Sewing machine company won 1st prize in the business men's floats. N. E. Community store won 2nd prize and the Woolworth 5 & 10 cent store won 3rd prize. Other floats in the parade were as follows: Judd Wright & Son, Brainerd Office Supply Co., Alderman-Magham Hardware, William Hopper Cigar Co., John M. Bye, Clothing Company, Peterson Clothing Company, Gruenhagen Hardware, Folsom Music Company. In the fraternal orders the Elk's club won 1st prize while the Lions club had to be satisfied with 2nd. There were no boy's dogs in the parade which was very unusual for almost every boy has a dog and takes a great pride in showing him.

The good dance music attracted great throngs and was busy all the time, these musicians are due a large amount of credit for their valiant efforts.

Mrs. Floyd Thompson, a vaudeville star, formerly with Lottie Mayers' famous troupe of "Sand Witches" which toured the country from coast to coast on Pantages Vaudeville Circuit, gave an exhibition of difficult and fancy diving both in the afternoon and evening. The committee was extremely fortunate in securing the services of this accomplished diver who has for years done her diving in a glass tank from great heights on the stage. This performance was greatly enjoyed and added much to the day's events.

American Legion Women's Auxiliary come in for enormous credit for several tableaux displayed, namely Betsy Ross and the Flag, Liberty Star Spangled Banner, one person in each of the following characters: Civil war veteran, Spanish war veteran, a World war Doughboy, Sailor, Marine, Red Cross, Girl scout. Mrs. W. S. Orne made several attempts to secure a Boy Scout but for some reason or other the scout failed to show up, thus leaving out one of the characters in our daily life that we are so well acquainted with.

In the Liberty tableau, special mention must be given to Helen M. Stadelbauer, Betty Krause, Mary Katherine O'Brien and Donna Dennis. In the Betsy Ross and the Flag tableau special mention is given to Mrs. Oberst and Mary Horner.

Capt. Erick Graff and Officer Oscar Risberg are to be complimented on their good work in keeping down the order. Due to the presence of those two officers of the law very little rowdism, if any appeared, in fact disorders of any kind were very conspicuous by their very absence. In addition to their other duties they acted as nursemaids to wandering children who strived their best to lose themselves in the park, forstalled in their efforts by the watchful eyes of these two officers.

Much credit is due Joe Jorgens for constructing the raft as well as furnishing the material for the burning raft, thus relieving the committee of expense and lots of hard work.

The city sprinkling department was on the job bright and early and sprinkled the road leading to Lum park from the edge of the pavement to the top of the hill. The department was on the job until the traffic became too heavy for the sprinkling. By eliminating the dust and packing down the gravel, travel to the park was made much easier under the strain of so many cars kicking up the dust.

Two clowns kept the children as well as the older folks in a continuous uproar. The N. E. Brainerd Tigers made the rounds of the park in a truck with the clowns and a "Rube" band.

The big fireworks of both the day and night displays were very much enjoyed and showed a great amount of labor was done by this committee. J. M. Card chairman of the parade committee, Ben N. Anderson, Dave Goodnature and Wm. Conklin, as assistants, after handling the parade had charge of the dance where 153 dance tickets were sold, reported a very successful afternoon and evening. $20.00 in prize boxes of choice candy donated from the following: candy kitchens in Brainerd were given out; DeSmith's, new store 6th and Laurel, Princess Candy Kitchen, Olympia Candy Kitchen, Brainerd Candy Kitchen and Lammon's Pharmacy.

The big feature of the day was the speech given by L. O. Hodgson. His speech dealt principally with patriotism and patriotism. He is not only a strong speaker but a wonderful orator and at different times throughout the audience there was not a dry eye. The things he brought out so vividly will long be remembered. He told of some teachers and professor in this country who even went so far as to try and teach the little children that the Revolutionary War and the Declaration of Independence were a fizzle. Why the 4th of July is our birthday as a country and is as important as our own birthday which in a few words tells our life's story. The committee responsible for securing this wonderful speaker is surely to be complimented.

The American Legion as a whole is to be highly complimented on for their hard work and such a successful Fourth of July.

MR. O'BRIEN RESPONDS

Relief Work in Stricken Ohio City to
be Under the Direction of
the Red Cross

Mayor Con O'Brien yesterday received the following telegram from George Hoffman, mayor of Lorraine, Ohio, the city that is suffering acutely from the ravages of the storm of a week ago today:

"Lorraine is sorely stricken. Loss will largely fall upon people homeless and without resources. Ohio's governor is acting to secure aid throughout state. This will not suffice. Lorraine needs every contribution possible from municipalities or individuals. Send contributions to Lorraine chapter, Red Cross. National Red Cross will supervise distribution."

Mayor O'Brien responded to this urgent request for aid, with his personal check for $100.

Any other local citizens, who wish to make a donation to this cause are asked to do so immediately, as the need is pressing.

CHURCH CONFERENCE AT PAYNESVILLE, MINN.

The Assembly Grounds of the Evangelical church, located two miles from Paynesville, Minn., will soon see activities in connection with the seven days' Presbyterian summer conference, which takes place from July 7 to 13. These spacious and attractive grounds are on the shore of Lake Koshong. Delegates should arrive by Monday afternoon, July 7. The first conference session is Monday evening; the last is Sunday evening, July 13. Delegates are expected to remain until Monday morning July 14. Provision will be made to transport delegates from Paynesville to the conference grounds.

The church's endorsement of each delegate is required on the registration blank, and is the assurance that the delegate has been officially appointed, understands the conference program and accepts conference standards. Miss Helen Dillon, Miss Georgia Brown, Mrs. Patterson, Mark Peterson, and the Rev. A. G. Patterson will leave Brainerd on Monday morning to attend this conference.

MRS. W. R. CLARK DIED

Former Brainerd Resident Passed Away Suddenly in Seattle from Heart Trouble

Mrs. W. R. Clark, aged 65, and a former resident of Brainerd, died suddenly June 15, of heart failure, at her Seattle home. She and her husband came to Brainerd over 40 years ago and have many friends in this locality. Mrs. Clark leaves 5 children: Mrs. A. N. Lovstad of Brainerd, Mrs. E. J. Miller, Mrs. L. N. Scott, William G. Clark of Seattle, Mrs. Ernest Fortescue of Kirkland, Wash., and a brother, John Gordon of Brainerd. Mrs. Clark moved away in 1905 to Seattle.

Problem!

Sunday afternoon—and the Bible class was over. The teacher was standing by the door saying good-by to all the bright little darlings who had listened so attentively to her discourse.

"Good-by, Susie!" she said, with a sweet smile to one small child.
"Good-by, teacher," came the shrill reply, and then she added with pride "It's my birthday tomorrow!"
"Why," returned the teacher, "it's mine, too!"

The little girl's face was clouded with perplexity as she answered "How did you get so much bigger?"

NOTES ON RECENT PEONY EXHIBITION

Any Flower Shown Here Can Be Successfully Grown in Brainerd, is Claim of Expert

DULUTH SHOW JULY 14 AND 15

Lake Port is Widely Known For The Beautiful Peonies That Are
Grown in That City

As an aftermath of Brainerd's first Peony and Garden Flower show, held on Wednesday and Thursday, many gardeners are taking A. T. Wilkus timely advice, and are "feeding" their peonies. Mr. Wilkus called attention to the fact that the peonies will, from now until August 15th, develop the roots which are to produce the plants next year and that the blooms for next year will be determined by the care that the peonies receive during this period.

The proprietor of the Riverview Gardens further recommends frequent cultivation, plenty of water and about three handfuls of bone meal and one of slacked lime about each plant, care being taken not to let the fertilizer touch the stem of the plant. This treatment will make prize blooms next year.

The H. F. Michael Co., will be pleased to have vases of blooms for display in their windows. The company believes that this will stimulate flower growing in Brainerd and will help "Make Minnesota Blossom."

It is requested that the blooms be brought to the store in the mornings. The Duluth Peony show will be held on July 14th and 15th. Brainerd fans will be much interested in this announcement and many will doubtless visit this show, as Duluth is widely noted for its peonies.

It should be remembered that there was not a peony shown at the local show that cannot be raised in Brainerd if care is given to the development of the plant, and this development is an interesting process.

The forming of a peony or garden flower organization for this community was left in the hands of L. P. Hall of Bay Lake. Mr. Hall is giving the matter careful attention, and hopes for an organization which will include all of Crow Wing county. If the peony show is to be made an annual event, it will be through this organization.

RIOTING AND BASEBALL WITH THE YANKS

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 5.—The New York sport writers have been shredding bitter tears because President Johnson of the American League plastered a $100 fine and 10 days' suspension on Outfielder Bob Meusel, while he gave Cole, the Detroit pitcher, a small fine for their part in pulling off the Detroit riot.

They felt very deeply grieved that "Big Ban" hadn't suspended the entire Detroit team or expelled Detroit from the league. Their bitterest laments, however, were over Johnson's failure to inflict some punishment on Ty Cobb, Tiger leader.

Their demands for Cobb's punishment were based on the somewhat feeble claim that Cobb had given his pitchers orders to "dust off" opposing batters and that Cole hit Meusel in an effort to drive him from the plate. The general attitude was that the Yanks are God's anointed and therefore are sacred. The charge against Cobb rests largely on the unsupported word of Ehmske, former Tiger pitcher, now with Boston. And at that, Ehmske never allowed himself to be quoted to that effect, but it has been generally circulated in American League circles that Ehmske "is said to have told the story to his new playmates."

But that is just how thin the charge against Cobb is. Cobb is admittedly a hot-headed southerner, but no one who knows him well will believe for a minute that he would give orders that might result in the serious injury of a fellow ball player. That New York sport writers allow themselves to be influenced by such unproven reports is astonishing to fair-minded critics of the game.

Come to think of it, the only cases of serious injury to batsmen by thrown balls from the box in recent years in the majors have been where New York pitchers were doing the hurling. Carl Mays killed Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, on a New York diamond. Mays, now with the Cincinnati Reds, was then a Yank. In their wildest moments of anger, the Cleveland scribblers never laid the blame on Miller Huggins, Pfeffer, then with Brooklyn, hit "Chick" Frewster with a thrown ball several years ago in a practice game and put Frewster out of the Yank lineup for a year and probably prevented him for all time becoming the star he should have been. Did anyone even make charges against Manager Robinson of Brooklyn? They did not.

General opinion in baseball circles, outside of the faratical Yank fans and writers, is that Meusel didn't get half that was coming to him. He deliberately started the riot which he knew would result by his attack on Cole before a hostile Detroit crowd. He was supported by Ruth, who attempted to get into the fighting game, making it two to one against Cole, at fighting weight, would be easy meat for either Meusel or Ruth.

Meusel is a man of some intelligence, and if the riot day was one of his thinking days, he must have known that he was starting something he couldn't finish.

The game was forfeited to the Yanks because it would have been impossible to clear the Detroit grounds after Meusel's unwarranted attack with anything short of a riot gun battery. In this case the Yanks had a comfortable lead and the forfeited game did not affect the result, but it called attention to the weakness of the forfeited game rule. It is evidently possible for a pugnacious ball player, with his team behind, on a foreign field, to start a riot as Meusel did at Detroit and have the game forfeited to the team that is losing. The rule should be amended, giving the umpire power in a case of a deliberately incited riot, to punish the team as well as individual offenders.

The Greater New York teams have been allowed to get away with a lot, because the money taken in the New York gate keeps many a team off its uppers, but some limit should be set.

Baseball writers all over the circuit are of the opinion that "Ducky" Holmes inflicted unnecessary heavy punishment on the St. Louis Browns for the little flareup on the St. Louis grounds recently. Johnson's suspension of Sisler, Collins and Austin was, of course, based on Holmes' report. Sisler, as manager, certainly had a right to protest in a gentlemanly way if he thought his team was getting a raw deal and no one who knows Sisler believes that even in the heat of the game, he would so far forget himself to make anything but a gentlemanly protest. And scribes who have watched the American League umpires this year, believe quite a few of them are afflicted with sun-spots.

N. P. SHOPS WIN OVER AITKIN NINE

STEVENS PITCHED WONDERFUL GAME FOR THE HOME TEAM

The Brainerd Shop team came off the victor yesterday in the contest with the Aitkin nine. The weather was ideal for baseball and each man was on his toes every minute of the game. Molstad being the only man on the Shop team charged with an error. Stevens pitched a wonderful game and allowed only seven hits, one for three bases. He struck out ten and walked none. Phillips for the visitors permitted 14 hits, his support in the infield being rather mediocre. The box score follows:

R. H. E.
Brainerd ..... 330 001 00x-7 14 1
Aitkin ..... 000 000 101-2 7 4

Struck out by Stevens, 10; by Phillips, 5; the latter also walked four. Two base hits: Erickson, 1; Uddenberg, 1; Peterson, 1. Zealand for the visitors cracked out a three-bagger in the ninth inning. Vanni umpired the game. Sunday the shop

Stanley Harris, Youngest Big League Manager, Lands Senators on Top for First Time in 11 Years

Picked by Harris, who is only 25 years old, the Washington Senators fought their way up from the seventh notch in the American League standing to the leadership, replacing the Yankees. The young leader has imbued in his men the worth of fighting all the time. Where Clark Griffith, McBride, Milan and Bush failed a youngster has shown that there's nothing impossible in baseball, even making a Washington team a league leader.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of good water — you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advt

RIOTING AND BASEBALL WITH THE YANKS

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 5.—The New York sport writers have been shredding bitter tears because President Johnson of the American League plastered a $100 fine and 10 days' suspension on Outfielder Bob Meusel, while he gave Cole, the Detroit pitcher, a small fine for his part in pulling off the Detroit riot.

They felt very deeply grieved that "Big Ban" hadn't suspended the entire Detroit team or expelled Detroit from the league. Their bitterest laments, however, were over Johnson's failure to inflict some punishment on Ty Cobb, Tiger leader.

Their demands for Cobb's punishment were based on the somewhat feeble claim that Cobb had given his pitchers orders to "dust off" opposing batters and that Cole hit Meusel in an effort to drive him from the plate. The general attitude was that the Yanks are God's anointed and therefore are sacred. The charge against Cobb rests largely on the unsupported word of Ehmke, former Tiger pitcher, now with Boston. And at that, Ehmke never allowed himself to be quoted to that effect, but it has been generally circulated in American League circles that Ehmke "is said to have told the story to his new playmates."

But that is just how thin the charge against Cobb is. Cobb is admittedly a hot-headed southerner, but no one who knows him well will believe for a minute that he would give orders that might result in the serious injury of a fellow ball player. That New York sport writers allow themselves to be influenced by such unproven reports is astonishing to fair-minded critics of the game.

Come to think of it, the only cases of serious injury to batsmen by thrown balls from the box in recent years in the majors have been where New York pitchers were doing the hurling. Carl Mays killed Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, on a New York diamond. Mays, now with the Cincinnati Reds, was then a Yank. In their wildest moments of anger, the Cleveland scribes never laid the blame on Miller Huggins, Pfeffer, then with Brooklyn, hit "Chick" Frewster with a thrown ball several years ago in a practice game and put Frewster out of the Yank lineup for a year and probably prevented him for all time becoming the star he should have been. Did anyone even make charges against Manager Robinson of Brooklyn? They did not.

General opinion in baseball circles, outside of the fanatical Yank fans and writers, is that Meusel didn't get half that was coming to him. He deliberately started the riot which he knew would result by his attack on Cole before a hostile Detroit crowd. He was supported by Ruth, who attempted to get into the fighting game, making it two to one against Cole, at fighting weight, would be easy meat for either Meusel or Ruth.

Meusel is a man of some intelligence, and if the riot day was one of his thinking days, he must have known that he was starting something he couldn't finish.

The game was forfeited to the Yanks because it would have been impossible to clear the Detroit grounds after Meusel's unwarranted attack with anything short of a riot gun battery. In this case the Yanks had a comfortable lead and the forfeited game did not affect the result, but it called attention to the weakness of the forfeited game rule. It is evidently possible for a pugnacious ball player, with his team behind, on a foreign field, to start a riot as Meusel did at Detroit and have the game forfeited to the team that is losing. The rule should be amended, giving the umpire power in a case of a deliberately incited riot, to punish the team as well as individual offenders.

The Greater New York teams have been allowed to get away with a lot, because the money taken in the New York gate keeps many a team off its uppers, but some limit should be set.

Baseball writers all over the circuit are of the opinion that "Ducky" Holmes inflicted unnecessary heavy punishment on the St. Louis Browns for the little flareup on the St. Louis grounds recently. Johnson's suspension of Sisler, Collins and Austin was, of course, based on Holmes' report. Sisler, as manager, certainly had a right to protest in a gentlemanly way if he thought his team was getting a raw deal and no one who knows Sisler believes that even in the heat of the game, he would so far forget himself to make anything but a gentlemanly protest. And scribes who have watched the American League umpires this year, believe quite a few of them are afflicted with sun-spots.

N. P. SHOPS WIN

OVER AITKIN NINE

STEVENS PITCHED WONDERFUL GAME FOR THE HOME TEAM

The Brainerd Shop team came off the victor yesterday in the contest with the Aitkin nine. The weather was ideal for baseball and each man was on his toes every minute of the game Molstad being the only man on the Shop team charged with an error. Stevens pitched a wonderful game and allowed only seven hits, one for three bases. He struck out ten and walked none. Phillips for the visitors permitted 14 hits, his support in the infield being rather mediocre. The box score follows:

R. H. E.
Brainerd.....330 001 00x—7 14 1
Aitkin.....000 000 101—2 7 4
Struck out by Stevens, 10; by Phillips, 5; the latter also walked four. Two base hits: Erickson, 1; Uddenberg, 1; Peterson, 1. Zealand for the visitors cracked out a three-bagger in the ninth inning. Vanni umpired the game. Sunday the shop team will play Staples at the Staples grounds.

U. S. WOMEN WIN WORLD'S TENNIS TITLE

(By United Press)

Valet Auto-Stop Razor

Winsome maiden has to weedle
Bashful youth to ply his needle

Saving dog, he wins the fancy
Of a maiden quite romancy

To stop her marriage Harold dashes,
All the speed laws gaily smashes

Just in time he stops the wedding
And tears of laughter you'll be shedding
